INTRODUCTION

It is with pleasure that the author and compiler of this record of many of the descendants of JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE, COLONISTS, of Watertown, Massachusetts, 1630, presents this volume in November, 1930, during the celebration of the Tercentenary of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay. No more timely or appropriate moment for its compilation could have been chosen, and it has been a labor of love, and a service that she feels an honor, to be permitted to chronicle the records of her family through three hundred years in this western land, that today stands as the finest government of the world.

For a family to be one of those that aided in the settlement of such a country is a fact that is of justifiable pride. This is true from two standpoints. First, in 1630, Massachusetts Bay had its first charter vested in a resident government, — a charter recognizing the wish and will of the colonists; founded and based upon the principle of self-government, which led to the forming of this country into a separate democracy. The history of that truly wonderful charter cannot be entered into here, but all who have studied it know that through it came religious freedom, political progress and the foundation of honor, steadfastness and idealism that has made America the leading force in the world today. Second, there is the more intimate and personal cause for pride, — that our family's ancestor possessed the courage, character, insight and foresight to press forward to this new land, fearing no ill, daring all peril and hardship, that his own beliefs and conscience might be upheld.

JOHN COOLIDGE and his brave wife MARY left Cottenham, Cambridgeshire, Eng., to make their home in another territory of the mother country. It might be looked upon as a change of residence under the same government. Their coming to America and to Massachusetts Bay was not the coming of an immigrant as it is defined today. Immigration of today, as we look upon it, is the coming to this country of persons of another nationality and government, of another tongue, of other customs and background, and having no rights of citizenship, until through certain imperative steps they finally are permitted to become enfranchised. The early settlers of Massachusetts Bay were most decidedly citizens of the country which owned this colony. They were of the nationality, tongue, customs and background of the owner of this land. It is well for us to ponder this fact, and to realize that our ancestor was not an immigrant! He was something far greater, far nobler, far more basic in the foundation of America. He was a COLONIST, and the author knows no more impressive way to bring home the difference between these two comers to our shores — immigrant and colonist — than to quote the very able and compelling definition of our United States Commissioner of Immigration, Mrs. Anna C. M. Tillinghast, whose opinion, assuredly, carries authority on this point, through the very experience and knowledge of her office. She says on this question:

> People often say to me, "We were all immigrants not so very long ago, and the immigrant of today has just as much right to come to the United States as did those in the early years of our history."
> To my mind there is a distinction between COLONIST and IMMIGRANT.
>
> The COLONISTS came to this country when it was little more than a wilderness. They endured untold dangers, hardships and privations that they might convert that wilderness into habitable communities; that they might build homes; rear families, and enact laws for their mutual protection and well-being. Because of their vision, their courage and their power of endurance these United States of America were born.
> Immigration, popularly spoken of today, means the movement of peoples to a country, after its government and institutions have been established, for the purpose of enjoying its opportunities and privileges without sharing the dangers which brought it into being.

Such a definition establishes the right of descendants of the Colonists to feel that their ancestors made this country the safe and altogether desirable place that it is for the immigrants who today are seeking it as a haven of refuge and as a land of peace and plenty; and in that feeling the descendants of 1630, today, upon the celebration of the Tercentenary, are justified in feeling pride in a courageous ancestor, and in paying honor and tribute to those COLONISTS.

It is well to be inspired by one's ancestors. Pride in them may, indeed, make one pause in the commission of some act that is unworthy the heritage. Desire to emulate may arouse slumbering ambition, and urge one forward to an equally great destiny. Pride in them that allows descendants to sit back smugly and prate of their prominence, while merely cumbering the earth themselves, and even arousing disgust and ridicule on the part of their hearers, is a false pride and a bitter enemy to the ancestry that should be held in esteem by those who learn of it through these boasters. In connection with pleasure in ancestry, it is pointed out that one may ponder well the words in the paragraph preceding Chapter I — wise words dryly uttered by a thinker (the grandfather of the president of the family association, William Henry Coolidge), — TIMOTHY COOLIDGE of Natick:

IT DOESN'T MATTER SO MUCH WHAT YOU THINK OF YOUR ANCESTORS AS IT DOES WHAT YOUR ANCESTORS WOULD THINK OF YOU.

To go back to the compilation of this book — it has been a colossal task, and the time allowed has, indeed, been short. Your historian was authorized at the last meeting of the COOLIDGE FAMILY ASSOCIATION, held June 22, 1929, to compile the genealogy. This meant that between July 1 and March 15, when copy should be ready to go to the printer, the records must be followed out and put down in order. It was a tremendous undertaking. Only by the co-operation of the members of the Association and of descendants of the various branches; by the co-operation of the societies and public offices holding records, could it be possible of accomplishment. Old records had to be searched; confused, missing, contradictory records painfully pursued. There are bound to be errors and missing names, in spite of all endeavors. The compiler can only bespeak the indulgence, the patience of Association members if such errors there be, and their realization that she has done the best she could with what she had to do with — in many cases most incomplete. If they find information on their special line incomplete, they must ask themselves if they answered the compiler's letter of inquiry, or if they could have given her more definite information. If they could have and did not do so, they should admit where lies the blame. If they could not, they must admit, likewise, that the compiler was probably in similar predicament as to finding the correct information.

To all who have sent in information the author gives her sincere thanks. To the New England Historic and Genealogical Society which has loaned books of published early records; to the Secretary of State of Massachusetts, Hon. Frederic W. Cook, and to the head of the Vital Statistics Division therein,

Mr. Arthur G. Hassett, both of whom graciously permitted the copying of certain records of births and marriages of Coolidges since 1850, that they might be matched into the lines from Bond's "Genealogies and History of Watertown," Temple's "History of Framingham," Morse's "Sherborn and Holliston," and vital records printed up to 1850, and a score of other printed sources, as well as into the material furnished by Association members themselves; and lastly, to Miss Helen D. Skilton of the Vital Statistics Division, especially, whose kindness and courtesy were unfailing aids, the author gives her sincere expression of gratitude.

Of great value, too, was the printed genealogy of some of the descendants of the youngest son of JOHN and MARY, — JONATHAN COOLIDGE, — many of whom resided in Boston, this book having been compiled and privately printed in 1900 by Dr. ALGERNON (SIDNEY) COOLIDGE (b. Aug. 22, 1830; m. July 15, 1856, MARY LOWELL, see 1. 8. 5. 4. 1. 1. 2. 4.), father of Dr. Algernon Coolidge, Mr. Francis Lowell Coolidge, and Mr. Sidney Coolidge, members of the Association. Also of assistance was the article on "Early New England Coolidges and Some of Their Descendants," by George Walter Chamberlain, M.S., of Malden, in the New England Historic and Genealogical Register of October, 1923, carrying forward a few of the lines given in Bond's "History of Watertown."

To Mrs. Sarah Fiske White of Framingham is given thanks for the gift of Temple's "History of Framingham," which has been of great assistance for the Framingham lines of the family. To Mr. Walter W. Coolidge of Sun Prairie, Wis., she gives her sincere thanks for the generous manuscript supplying information for descendants who went from Leyden and vicinity, to New York, thence westward. To Dr. Marion E. Cady of Washington, D. C., and to Mrs. A. C. Schiller (Marjorie Coolidge) of Syracuse, N. Y., she expresses her gratitude for information as to some descendants of the branches of LUTHER and OLIVER and BENJAMIN KNOWLTON COOLIDGE of Vermont, descendants of SIMON (1. 3.). To Miss Helen Longstreet Coolidge, who has assisted by copying certain records of births and marriages at the office of the Secretary of State, in order that missing dates for branches of the members of the Coolidge Family Association might supplement what had been sent in, she expresses her appreciation for this tedious service.

Particularly does she express her appreciation to Mrs. Mattie Coolidge Crawford of Watertown for the facts as to the rectory at Cottenham, and for the pictures she brought back from her trip there a few years ago which she has kindly furnished for this book. Their presence in this volume make the home of our ancestor JOHN COOLIDGE and the scenes of his boyhood seem very real and near to us. Particularly lovely and appealing is the picture that shows the old village street, with the church spire in the background. It will mean much to all descendants.

To Mr. Ray Coolidge of Cambridge she tenders thanks for the furnishing of the cut of the Coolidge coat of arms, which is used in Chapter I.

Looking back to the days of her childhood and girlhood, when the author of this volume learned from her father, JOHN HENRY COOLIDGE of Natick, the Coolidge traditions, and watched him gather many interesting facts concerning the family and the branches of the Natick-Sherborn line especially, she feels she must add a word in tribute to his ability in these historical and genealogical lines. He inspired in her appreciation for worth-while history and for the fundamentals of character of the early settlers, which have made this compilation of family records a pleasure and honor in service. It was, perhaps, always his ambition to write a genealogy of the Coolidge family, but his interests in other fields did not give him the time. That ambition was passed on to the compiler of this volume, and in it she sees realized the dream that has been hers from girlhood — some day to gather together the facts of her family's history.

And lastly, the expression of her gratitude would not be complete if she did not pay tribute to the man whose interest, generosity and splendid co-operation and unfailing support and confidence have made possible the publication of this record of the COOLIDGES, — to the president of the Coolidge Family Association, and honorary chairman of the Genealogical Committee, Mr. William Henry Coolidge of Manchester. To him the Association, and all Coolidges in the United States, descendants from JOHN and MARY, owe their gratitude and thanks for this achievement.

May this volume be a source of pleasure to all descendants of JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE today and in years to come.

COOLIDGE FAMILY ASSOCIATION

From a small, but interesting, beginning, has grown into existence the Coolidge Family Association, a group of descendants from John and Mary Coolidge, the Colonists, that takes in inhabitants the country over, from Boston to California, from the Canadian line, through Vermont, south to Georgia and Texas; with over three hundred accredited members, and with many in their families not specified as members, and with many others seeking information about this organization, and eager to become allied therewith. Some forty years ago a few members of the family of the Sherborn-Natick branch, chiefly, met at the home of Deacon William Leander Coolidge of Natick, and at about the same time descendants of another branch were holding family meetings.

The following information was furnished most graciously by Miss Nettie E. Coolidge, secretary, from the records in her keeping:

In the summer of 1880, August 25, fifty years ago, there was held at Wayside Inn a meeting of the families of James and Peter Coolidge, sons of David and Dorothy (Stearns), descendants of Nathaniel Coolidge, third son of John and Mary Coolidge. About twenty relatives in this branch of the family were present. Other meetings of descendants of this same branch were held in subsequent years: at Tower Hill, Wayland, in 1887, and another at the same place in 1889, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Coolidge, 3d, at which time Mr. James Coolidge acted as president.

Eight years later, in July, 1897, a meeting of the same branch of descendants was held at Natick, with Deacon John R. Adams. By this time the guest list included many Coolidges of other branches besides the family of descendants of David and Dorothy (Stearns) Coolidge. The group did not meet again until 1910, when a reunion was held at the home of Miss H. Elizabeth Coolidge, daughter of James, 3d, and Henrietta (Saunders), at Framingham Centre, with thirty-eight present. This meeting was held in the old Peter Coolidge house, owned by Miss H. Elizabeth Coolidge and her sister, Mrs. Tatnall. In 1911 two meetings were held, one at the home of Mrs. Deborah Dowse Coolidge, at Sherborn, and one in October, at Bethany Universalist Church, South Framingham, of those who were unable to attend the Sherborn reunion. In May, 1913, about fifty guests met at the home of Miss H. Adelaide Coolidge, at Watertown. This was the first meeting of which records refer to a business meeting. The following officers were chosen at this time: President, Mr. Daniel Coolidge of Cambridge; vice-presidents, Miss H. Adelaide Coolidge of Watertown and Miss Elizabeth D. Coolidge of Sherborn; and secretary, Miss Susan Munroe Hastings of Framingham. Miss Hastings remained the secretary for many years, seeing the group spread to other branches who learned of the meetings and signified desire to join with them. So started what is today the Coolidge Family Association.

An unusually large meeting was held in June, 1914, at the home of Mrs. Deborah Dowse Coolidge, at Sherborn, with over eighty present. This year marked the two hundredth anniversary of the death of JOHN COOLIDGE, the first Coolidge who went to Sherborn from Watertown about 1680. At the meeting of June, 1919, at the home of Mr. Joseph Austin Coolidge, at Cambridge, the members had the pleasure of greeting His Excellency the Governor, Calvin Coolidge, and Mrs. Coolidge who attended this reunion. With the exception of the year 1927, meetings of the Association have been held annually since then. During the past ten years there have been many delightful gatherings of the Coolidges on spacious estates of members of the Association on June days that will be remembered. Especially noteworthy were the meetings at the Manchester estate of Mr. William Henry Coolidge, "Blynman Farm," with its view of sea and forest; at Manchester-by-the-Sea, also, with Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge; at Milton, on the estates of Hon. Louis Arthur Coolidge and of Mr. Francis Lowell Coolidge; at Concord, on the farm of Mr. Sidney Coolidge; at Middleboro, on the farm of Dr. Sumner Coolidge; and at Wayland, at "Hawthorne Lodge," with its atmosphere of old Connecticut Path, the country home of Hon. Henry Coolidge Mulligan. On June 28, 1930, the Association most appropriately celebrated the three hundredth anniversary of the coming of their ancestors, JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE, the Colonists, to Watertown, by meeting in that town, at the old Coolidge homestead beside the old cemetery where stand the stones of these ancestors, as guests of Mr. Herbert Coolidge and his sisters. Over two hundred attended this meeting, coming from all parts of the United States. The feature of the program was an Historical Address, reviewing outstanding events of the three hundred years of the Family and of the careers of noteworthy descendants, by the Historian and Chairman of the Genealogical Committee, and there were entertaining speeches by descendants of each of the five children of JOHN and MARY to have descendants. A complete and detailed account of this meeting, comprising about a page and a half of description, was given by both Watertown newspapers, the "Sun" and the "Tribune-Enterprise," indicating the interest in the event and the respect held in the community for the old Watertown family.

Those who attended this meeting may recall that Judge Henry Coolidge Mulligan, who usually is present at annual meetings, was unable to attend on account of illness. He recovered from this sickness, but overworked, and again was taken ill in September. After an illness of seven weeks, just when it was thought he was on the road to recovery, bronchial pneumonia set in and he died Nov. 4, 1930. His passing is a source of sorrow to individuals, to organizations, to his home town, and to the state, for during an active and able legal and political career he served all, winning friendship, respect and homage. Members of the Association will learn with grief of the passing of this member who was for a time its president. Report of this was made possible just as we went to press in this early section of the book, all pages following page 30 having been completed.

Continuing with the record of the Coolidge Family Association, those who have held office as president during the years 1913–30 are as follows:

Mr. Daniel S. Coolidge of Cambridge, 1913–15.
Mr. Joseph Austin Coolidge of Cambridge, 1915–20.
Hon. Louis Arthur Coolidge of Milton, 1920–23.
Dr. Sumner Coolidge of Lakeville, 1923–25.
Judge Henry Coolidge Mulligan of Natick, 1925–26.
Mr. Sidney Coolidge of Concord, 1926–28.
Mr. William Henry Coolidge of Manchester, 1928–

In June, 1923, Hon. Louis Arthur Coolidge, president of the Coolidge Family Association, appointed a permanent Committee of Five Members, as a Genealogical Committee for the Coolidge family, wisely realizing that records for the family should be gathered, saved and kept by some one who would take the responsibility of their safe-keeping, since they would become more and more valuable as the years passed. This committee appointed was composed of Dr. Algernon Coolidge of Boston; Miss Emma D. Coolidge of Newton; Miss Susan Hastings of Framingham; Mr. Ray L. Coolidge of Cambridge; and Hon. Marcus Coolidge of Fitchburg. In the formation of the committee for active work in the fall of 1923, Dr. Coolidge became chairman, and, because of the stress of business of other members of the committee, it seemed, by necessity, to devolve upon Miss Emma D. Coolidge to act as secretary, in which capacity all correspondence was attended to, printing arranged, and inquiry sent out to all Association members, and to all others of whom there was knowledge as being connected with the family. Dr. Algernon Coolidge resigned in 1929, and the president appointed the secretary to take his place, and in the vacancy so made on the committee, appointed Miss Helen Longstreet Coolidge, daughter of Hon. Louis Arthur Coolidge.

To Hon. Marcus Allen Coolidge, loyal member of the Association, who always attends the meetings, and permanent member of the Genealogical Committee, came the honor on Nov. 4, 1930, of overwhelming election to the high office of United States Senate, and the Association adds to its roll yet another distinctive record in individual career. For him and for his family is wished happiness and progress that will bring new honors and homage during the coming six years at Washington, D. C.

To return to the history of the Genealogical Committee, it remained for Mr. William Henry Coolidge, president of the Association, in June, 1929, to authorize active work upon a record that should be in print in 1930, as the family's appropriate share in the celebration of the Tercentenary.

The present officers of the Coolidge Family Association are:

President, Mr. William Henry Coolidge of Boston and Manchester, Mass.

Vice-president, Mr. Francis Lowell Coolidge, Marlborough Street, Boston (winters), and Milton, Mass. (summers).

Secretary-treasurer, Miss Nettie E. Coolidge, 17 Otis Street, Framingham, Mass.

Chairman of the Genealogical Committee, Miss Emma Downing Coolidge, 4 Pembroke Street, Newton, Mass.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

This volume contains, for the most part, a strictly genealogical record of lines of descent from JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE of Watertown, 1630. Little is given of a biographical nature, and this chiefly as a method of identifying persons or ancestral lines.

It will be noted that many death dates are not recorded. Such dates published in genealogies or furnished by members of the Coolidge Family Association have been inserted, but it was thought inadvisable to spend months searching state records for this information, when time for compilation was so limited. The value of these dates is only in establishing maternal lines, or in settling conflicting lines of descent. It seemed to your compiler that life was more important than death in carrying forward the lines of the family, and in making its history, and since time was such a factor in completing this volume she sacrificed this research to the more important one of tracing families and lines of descent.

Probably every one who has looked into records knows that there is a so-called double date in records for years 1752 and previous. The change of "Style," made by Act of Parliament in 1752 is the cause of this confusion of date, and confusion it certainly sometimes is. The change made a net change of approximately three months, as not only was the beginning of the year changed from March 25 to January 1, but eleven days were dropped from the calendar. This means that with April 5, for example, becoming January 1, a child born on April 6, formerly the twelfth day of the New Year, now the first day of the year, would have to be recorded as born July 10, in order to keep the correct number of months after marriage, unless the marriage date was likewise changed. It is quite evident that such instances occurred, and a misunderstanding of some of the early recorders, who were not always as careful or as keen as they might have been (since it is apparent they changed the date in the wrong direction, so making the child born five and six months after marriage), is doubtless the explanation of many of these seeming "scandals." Your compiler cannot today, of course, correct these palpable errors, but she can give this most satisfactory explanation which will spare feelings, and prove the virtue of ancestors. This, too, may be the explanation of similar amazing dates after the year 1752, when a town official who remained in office through many years, having acquired the habit of changing records by three months, went on changing indefinitely. Or the explanation of many peculiar dates may be the result of their entry years after the marriage and births for an entire family, and faulty memory played havoc. Comparison between old records and family Bible records prove conclusively, in instances where such Bibles are available, that either of these explanations is logical, and therefore may apply to many cases where no such Bible records can be consulted.

Because it is not known whether or not all records were accurately changed, one other difficult feature is encountered, and it has caused the double dating which is seen in all genealogies. With the change of practically three months, births, marriages and deaths which occurred in what was November and December of the old year should perhaps become dates in February and March of the new year, and this moving forward of dates leaves the question whether a child was born as listed in November, 1725, or in February, 1726, perhaps. Since there was no way of discovering whether or not the change had been properly made, dates occurring from November to March are recorded 1725/6, for example, meaning the date should perhaps be set ahead into the next year.

The abbreviations used in this compilation are the usual genealogical ones: b. for born; d. for died; m. for married; int. for marriage intentions recorded, which date is given when the marriage date could not be found; unm. for unmarried; bp. for baptized; and in some cases s.p. is given for "no children," this being the term used in the records copied, meaning sine prole, strictly translated "without issue." Other abbreviations used will probably be easily understood, such as those commonly used for the states and for college degrees.

Cities and towns, unless the State is given, or unless another State than Massachusetts is quite evidently the one already referred to in that section, are in Massachusetts, since, naturally, the majority of descendants for whom information has been secured are in the home State. In a few cases, Massachusetts has been added to the name of a town when the persons referred to have been in another State, or when towns of the same name are in two States about which the text is speaking.

The system of numbering the individuals has been adopted for two reasons, — an original method of the compiler. First, it does away with the very difficult printing of small figures raised above the names showing the generations. By counting the number of digits before the name of the individual his generation from the first JOHN COOLIDGE may be ascertained at a glance. By tracing the numerals, descent can be followed from the beginning, instead of going through the very tiresome and often inaccurate procedure of following a number backwards through many pages to the first ancestor. JOHN COOLIDGE the COLONIST is 1., since he was the first in this country. His eldest son JOHN is, therefore, 1. 1., and the descendants of this son JOHN, Ensign, will be found designated throughout by this 1. 1. with other numerals added, as the generations progress, which show which son or daughter they are. This has the advantage of keeping one line or family together in a section, so that the entire descent from one son of JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE can be easily distinguished and instantly recognized. Almost from the first a reader knows, unforgettably that Ensign John Coolidge and his descendants are 1. 1.; that Simon and his descendants are 1. 3.; that Nathaniel and his descendants are 1. 4.; that Mary and her descendants are 1. 5.; and that Jonathan and his descendants are 1. 8.

As to the Index, all by the name of COOLIDGE, which is, of course, the family genealogy, are given first; then all other names are given in alphabetical order, beginning with "A." The index will not include every name that is in the genealogy. This would be an impossibility, because of the number of pages involved, and would also be cumbersome to a degree that would be annoying to the searcher. Names of children who died in infancy; names of all who are unmarried in the present generations, under twenty years of age; and names of children in both the early and present generations who did not marry, and about whom nothing is especially known personally, are not in the index. There may be a few notable exceptions, such as Calvin Coolidge, Jr., who was, of course, known country-wide. Also many in the early generations who lived, although unmarried, to be forty or fifty years of age, are indexed, since they were known to families descended in their branches. It has been the aim to put the names of members of the Coolidge Family Association in the index, whether married or not, except when one family may be found on a page or on consecutive pages, and except for those who are under marriageable age. These will be found under their father's name, or under the family name. Where there is only one family of a name into which a Coolidge has married, and all members of that family are found on one page or on consecutive pages, the individual names will not be given, but the family surname, simply, or in many cases the name of the father as head of the house with the addition "and desc.". It has seemed that any one looking up a family would be able to find any individual by locating either the family surname, or the father's name as head, and this would eliminate an endless amount of repetition of names, of the same page, and of space. Except for the above cases, the maiden name of the mother, whether or not a Coolidge, is indexed, and this should enable any one to trace the history of any woman named Coolidge, or who has married into the family.

The reader is cautioned to search an entire page for all of a given name, as there may be more than one of a name on the page.

The COOLIDGE name has been spelled throughout the compilation as shown in this sentence, unless it has been distinctly stated, or evident, that it was spelled by that special group with an "e," — Cooledge. All the other variants, such as Coolige, Collidge, College, Coleridge, Coolledge, Coollidge, and many others, which were the peculiar spelling of early days, when spelling was not an especially fine or consistent art, have been ignored, except for the English ancestry of the family, in Chapter I, since they would only have tended to make for confusion, and would not have been pleasing to view. The name seems to be established today as COOLIDGE, and only a few have gone from the beaten path and used the "e."

CHAPTER I

THE COOLIDGES IN ENGLAND

Henry Bond, in his "History of Watertown," quotes from the records of Horatio Gates Somerby,[1] "one of the earliest of Americans to devote himself to genealogical research in England," as follows:

The Coolidge Family seems to have been settled in Cambridge, England, from a very remote period. The name has been written in every possible way, as Coalyng, Coalidg, Colynge, Coolage, (and many others). The name first appears in the Subsidy Rolls for 1327, where WALTER and RALPH COALYNG were assessed for lands in Wimpole, in Cambridgeshire. In the time of Henry VIII, the family were seated in Arrington, and judging from the Wills, were at that time of wealth and great respectability, belonging to the gentry. (Page 164.)

Again, on page 746 of Bond's History, it speaks of the name of William de Coulinge holding lands in Cambridgeshire, for which his name appeared in the "Rolls of the Hundreds," at the time that Edward the First inaugurated the first taxing system, to add to his kingly revenues, looking about among

[1] Not only did Henry Bond give credence to the statements of Horatio Gates Somerby, in quoting therefrom in his "History of Watertown," and in publishing his research as to the pedigree of the Coolidges in England, but Mr. Henry Edwards Scott, editor of the New England Historic and Genealogical Register, in the October, 1926, issue, speaks of "the valuable Coolidge data that it (Mr. Somerby's collection of records) contains." He continues further:

"Mr. Somerby, one of the earliest Americans to devote himself to genealogical research in England, was elected to resident membership in the New England Historic Genealogical Society in 1845, was made a corresponding member in 1859, and died in London in 1872. Abstracts and copies of records which he made in England, with numerous genealogical notes, are preserved in the Somerby Manuscripts, an extensive collection of more than one hundred notebooks, with miscellaneous papers, which was given to the Society in 1874."

The amazingly accurate and desirable material as to wills of the Coolidges in England would indicate that his research and deductions as to the identity of JOHN COOLIDGE who came to the Massachusetts Bay Colony were equally accurate. Until his research is disproven, descendants in this country may take Mr. Somerby's statements as to pedigree with some assurance that this man who lived in England and was able to ferret out so much, was able to discover the truth. The author once heard a genealogist say: "It is significant that the only people who have ever discredited Mr. Somerby in his research are those for whom he found nothing especially desirable in their English ancestry." It may be true.

his people to see who had lands and wealth enough to contribute to his treasury. This, in itself, establishes the de Coulinges as of sufficient wealth and prosperity to have attracted Kingly attention.

In explanation of the name "de Coulinge," Mr. Somerby continues with explanation of the practice of those early days of possessors of land taking their name from the town in which located, the Saxons copying the Normans in this regard. He explains the name de Coulinge or Cowling, as derived from the town of Cowling, in Suffolk. If so, this would mean that they were Lords of the Manor of Cowling, renting their lands to the peasantry whom they patronized, and with right of entry to court as of the gentry. For example, Somerby says: "Instead of William de Coulinge, the landed gentry wrote themselves William Coulinge, of Coulinge," which statement establishes the cause of listing among the gentry.

Corroborating Mr. Somerby there are among records in the Boston Public Library those of the Rolls of Hundreds and Subsidy Rolls, that are in the Public Record office at Carleton Ride, London, which give the name of William de Coulinge of Cambridgeshire.

Corroborating him further, the Heralds' College of England, according to the statement of Adrian Bell of Cowlinge, Eng., has traced the American Coolidge family to William de Cowlinge of Cambridgeshire, at the time of William the Conqueror.

Wills that have been discovered at Bishop's Court of Ely, of the early Coolidges at Cambridgeshire, Coulinge and Arrington, from 1495, establish the worldly possessions of these families, in an accumulation that was not the easy thing in those days that it is today. They are intensely interesting and most fascinating in their listing of best kerchiefs and petticoats, coverlets, brass pots, sheets, tables, chairs, painted cloths (probably tapestries), feather beds, pewter platters, smocks, aprons, pairs of beads, horses, riding horses, lands and money; not to mention tithes to the poor, and to the church. They are most significant in proving the status of the family as people of means and influence.

Continuing in Bond's, quoting Mr. Somerby:

> The name has undergone various orthographic changes from the time of its adoption from the village of Cowlinge, in Suffolk, on the borders of Cambridgeshire; the first of the name probably being styled de Cowling or de Couling, as lord of the manor there, which family soon after removed to Cambridgeshire, and spelled the name at different periods in different ways — there being no fixed mode of spelling in those days, and persons wrote names as they sounded to the ear. In Burke's Dictionary of Arms are several varieties in the spelling of the name, evidently of one common origin, from the similarity of the arms; the griffin being almost always introduced in some form or another, either in the arms or crest. The fleur-de-lis seems anciently to have been connected with the family arms. (Page 746.)

However the design for the following Coolidge coat of arms may have been chosen for some member of the Coolidge family, it would seem that no more appropriate one could have been selected to describe the characteristics of members of the family through the generations. It is a shield of green, on which is depicted a griffin in gold, sometimes couchant, sometimes rampant (segréant). Griffins were known to the Greeks and Romans, as their sculptures and coins testify, showing this fabulous symbol of ancient origin. They have the forequarters of dragons, the hindquarters of lions, eagles' heads with prominent pointed ears, and small bat wings. The ears are of great importance in distinguishing the griffin, which is described as one of the fiercest, most active and quickest of animals. The pointed eared head is a favorite as a crest as it is the emblem of vigilance. It appears upon the armorial insignia of the Prince of Wales. The color "or", gold, signifies righteousness. The griffin in the Coolidge coat of arms here shown is of the position rampant, with claws outspread, and with mouth beaked.

Virtute et Fide

The motto is VIRTUTE ET FIDE, translated in two ways: BY BRAVERY AND FAITH, and WITH VIRTUE AND LOYALTY. Record of the Coolidges in achievements prove they have courage, and, having made up their minds to a course, press forward with faith that it will triumph. They are a loyal people to friend or cause, and they are clean of mind, heart and body. There have been no great scandals throughout the generations. They are a steady, law-abiding, practical clan, sturdy and sensible in their views. They are a peace-loving, peaceable folk, long-suffering and slow to wrath. But they are righteous in their judgments, and let a righteous cause for indignation arise, and they are, indeed, rampant, and woe betide all who get in the way while they are so aroused!

The statements quoted from Bond's lead to the deductions that have been made by various seekers after knowledge since the days of Mr. Somerby. It has been established that there is in Avranches, France, an old feudal castle, still standing, with its moat, and all the appropriate features of such a delightful family heirloom, that is said to belong to the ancient French family, the de Coulinges, or Coulynges, one of whose members, it is claimed, went across to England with William the Conqueror, carrying with them the coat of arms, with the fleur-de-lis. This would perhaps explain the fleur-de-lis which Mr. Somerby states was in the early coat of arms. If so, the family did not take its name from the English village of Cowling or Coulinge, but gave the village their name, and, quite naturally, were the Lords of the Manor. This tradition may, or may not, be true. If true, it is very intriguing. If not true, the record as shown in England from 1327 is undeniable, and is interesting enough in itself to prove that the family was not of yeomanry, or peasantry, uneducated, and without opportunity, as sometimes was claimed in the past few years by enthusiastic writers for newspapers, who loved to dwell on the simple, democratic background of the family.

Whether or not any proof may ever be forthcoming of early facts is a question. Beyond a certain point in the past a mist arises as to any families, since records were not kept, and it is absurd for any one to lay claim to families of early centuries, since proofs can never be obtained. It may seem probable, possible, feasible, but to assert, as do some, with braggadocio is only to open the path for ridicule. It does, besides, endless harm, for it casts discredit and disbelief upon facts that are established.

The genealogical descent of the English branch of the family is given in so far as it has been established by Mr. Somerby, leading up to the JOHN COOLIDGE who came to Massachusetts Bay in 1630. Four generations are shown as residing at Arrington, Eng., — THOMAS, JOHN, THOMAS, JOHN. The fifth, SIMEON COOLEDGE, is found at Cottenham, Eng. And Simeon's grandson, JOHN, was the Colonist.

Arrington, Cowlinge and Cottenham form a triangle, and are not far distant one from another. But the intensely interesting thing for descendants in this country is the village of Cottenham, where stands the beautiful old church where their ancestors worshipped, and in whose parish records is the record of baptism of the JOHN COOLIDGE who came to Watertown. A greater part of the original church that John, and his fathers before him, saw daily down the quaint old English street still stands, built in the fourteenth century. The steeple that John saw, however, fell in 1617, destroying in its fall the little schoolhouse. Sometime before 1700 a magnificent tower was built, replacing the steeple, and in 1699, through the generosity of a parishioner, Mrs. Katherin Pepys, a schoolhouse was built, and she also gave a "commonable" house, and £100 in money for the teaching of poor children. There are traces, too, of a yet earlier church here, known to have been in existence previous to 1200 A.D. Thatched roofs still mark each side of the village street that leads to this sacred shrine. Almost it seems that there has been no change, and that the same thatched cottages are in the picture that is shown as the frontispiece to the descendants of this English sire. It brings us very near to him! And looking down that peaceful vista to the tower that rises majestically at its head it almost seems that we are coming home. We draw near the church, admiring the beautiful tower that crowns it, and then we come upon the old churchyard beside it. Here will be found the stones that, gray and worn and leaning with age, mark the spot where lie John's father and mother, and his grandfather and grandmother, and many others of the family.

Within the church is the font where John Coolidge was baptized on that sixteenth day of September, 1604. He probably was born in 1603. The faded and blotted page of the Parish register records this religious rite.

Cottenham has a proud history. Tradition has it that the University of Cambridge first started in this humble town. The Cottenham Church and rectory are situated midway between Cambridge University and Ely Cathedral, founded A.D. 673, and considered to be among the finest cathedrals in England. In the list of fifty-two rectors of Cottenham beginning in 1260 is included the name of Peter French, who married Robina, a sister of Oliver Cromwell, who frequently himself slept at the rectory in a room that is still known as "Oliver's Room." There is no record of the precise date at which the rectory was built, but the greater part of it is several centuries old.

The name of COOLIDGE occurs several times in the Church Registers.

In Cottenham rectory garden there still survives an abundantly fruitful mulberry tree planted in the early years of the seventeenth century, and we may be sure that our ancestor looked upon that tree many times in his boyhood days.

In the following genealogical record, taken from the data gathered by Mr. Somerby, the numbers by generations are preceded by the letter E, indicating English ancestry of the family:

E. 1. THOMAS ?COLYNGE of Arrington, Eng., b. 1427. His will was dated Feb. 11, 1495, and proved in the Bishop's Court of Ely the same year. In it he mentioned land called Town Hill; his son and heir William; his daughters Agnes Hylls, Alys, and Johane, and his son John; making his son William Cowlynge and Thomas Berforth his executors.

Five children, born at Arrington:

1. William, m. MARGARET BELL. His will was dated Jan. 12, 1519, and proved May 27, 1519. Her will was dated Apr. 18, 1538, and proved Jan. 31, 1539.
   Four children:
   1. Robert (who spelled his name Coledge), m. JANE AUSTEN (widow).
   2. John (who spelled his name Culledge), was buried Dec. 28, 1542.
   3. Agnes, m. —— LANCASTER.
   4. Jane, m. —— AMES of Harlingfield.

2. John (spelled his name Colynge), m. ALICE, who was not living in 1524. His will was dated Dec. 6, 1524, and proved Dec. 10, 1524.
   Two children:
   1. Thomas, who evidently d. before his father did, for John Colynge left his estate in trust to his nephew Robert, son of his brother William, with instructions to care for Roger, who was evidently under age, and to give to him and to his grandson John, son of Thomas, his estate upon his and Roger's decease.
   2. Roger, who probably d. unm.
3. Agnes, m. —— HILL.
4. Alice.
5. Johane.

E. 1. 2. 1. 1. JOHN COLYNGE of Arrington, son of THOMAS COLLYNGE. He was legatee of his grandfather JOHN in 1524, when not 22 years of age.

Three sons are known: 1. Son whose name is not recorded. 2. Simeon (spelled his name Cooledge). 3. Thomas (spelled his name College) of Downham.

2. Simeon is found living at Cottenham, evidently the first to go to that town. Here he was buried Nov. 10, 1590. He m. (1st) JANE ——, who was buried at Cottenham, Dec. 15, 1584; six children; m. (2d) AGNES KINGSTON, who survived him. His will was dated Nov. 6, and proved Nov. 23, 1590. Six children, all of Cottenham (spelled name Cooledge):
   1. Alice, m. Oct. 14, 1587, ROBERT WHITEHEAD.
   2. William, m. at Cottenham, June 23, 1588, MARGARET MAYSE.
   3. John, m. Nov. 14, 1604, FRANCES FABRAM. He was buried at Cottenham, Oct. 17, 1622.
      Three daughters:
      1. Eleanor, bp. Mar. 15, 1606.
      2. Anne, bp. July 26, 1607.
      3. Margaret, bp. Nov. 15, 1612.
   4. Agnes.
   5. Edith, bp. Dec. 5, 1574.
   6. Thomas, bp. July 26, 1579; buried Aug. 13, 1599.

E. 1. 2. 1. 1. 2. 2. WILLIAM COOLEDGE of Cottenham, son of SIMEON and JANE ——, m. at Cottenham, June 23, 1588, MARGARET MAYSE. He was buried Oct. 25, 1618. His will was dated Oct. 21, 1618, and proved Oct. 31, 1618. She was buried Feb. 11, 1620. In old English records he is spoken of as William Cooledge, Gentleman, indicating that he was of the gentry.

Eight children, born at Cottenham:

1. Richard, bp. Jan. 4, 1590; m. May 5, 1615, Elizabeth Essex of the royal house of Essex. They had six children: Alice, Richard, Sarah, Simon, Elizabeth and William.
2. William, bp. Jan. 4, 1592; married and had a son William.
3. Jane, bp. Dec. 27, 1593; buried Mar. 22, 1596.
4. Thomas, bp. July 22, 1595; buried July 1, 1597.
5. Elizabeth, bp. May 22, 1598.
6. Simon, bp. June 15, 1600.
7. Margaret, bp. Sept. 19, 1602.
8. John, bp. Sept. 16, 1604; m. Mary ——; d. at Watertown, Mass., May 7, 1691. Somerby states that he was the Colonist who left Cottenham about 1630 for Massachusetts Bay Colony.

CHAPTER II

JOHN AND MARY COOLIDGE, THE COLONISTS

With the parish record of baptism of JOHN COOLIDGE, son of WILLIAM and MARGARET (MAYSE) COOLEDGE of Cottenham, Eng., official record in the Parish of Cottenham for him ends. For a moment, considering the Church Records of the many generations so carefully kept at Arrington and Cottenham, this may seem strange, but consideration of conditions and facts as they developed gives a most reasonable explanation, — an explanation, too, that would seem to determine the question as to when JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE arrived at Watertown. The Colynges of Arrington and the Cooledges of Cottenham, their descendants, had always been church members. This is attested by the records of baptisms, and more, by the loyal remembrance of the church in their interesting wills. Why, then, with the records of all of William Cooledge's children's baptisms recorded at Cottenham, does further information for the youngest son JOHN fail? There is one reason that would answer this question, and in answering one, answer many another that is puzzling seekers after knowledge.

For several years before 1630, Cottenham had no longer been a peaceful hamlet where lords of the manor had tenants tilling their fields. Like the parent country, England, it had been seething under a turmoil of religious, political and financial contention. England was in the grasp of an arrogant, strong-willed King — Charles the First — who had thrice dismissed Parliament because it failed to do his behest. With no parliament acting, with arbitrary courts of high commission, and star chambers wherein money was raised by all manner of unconstitutional methods, it can be understood how families of reputed means quailed at the approach of every messenger, and wondered how long prosperity and peace would be theirs. Cottenham, remote and quiet village though it was, perhaps had one factor that brought the tumultuous conditions closer than to many hamlets. It will be recalled that it was mentioned that Cromwell frequently slept at the rectory. Oliver Cromwell, seeking to overthrow the King; his sister Robina married to Peter French, a rector, it can be understood that his coming stirred factions in the little town, and aroused the gentry and peasants to white heat of interest or fear. The Church was in a furor of contention, certainly giving forth little of the sustenance of spiritual food. There is little doubt that JOHN COOLIDGE, scion of a courageous family, turned from the church that could give him so little uplift, and when wedding, did not enter the parish of Cottenham for the ceremony. As dissenters he and MARY sought civil marriage rather than one in the church. In this manner is lost the record of her maiden name, which it is hoped sometime will be discovered.

England was stirring, too, with the glad news that in the new western world there was to be vested government among the colonies, with a resident governor, and with right of expression of opinion on the part of its citizens, — an almost unheard of bit of progress under a kingly crown. Men of the highest class — men of nobility, of the gentry, of education and of high character — were about to embark for Massachusetts Bay. The Company was seeking men of high caliber to join in this far-reaching enterprise of founding a new colony, with persons of solid character and substance who would stand by their decision, be of sane judgment in forming new laws and customs, and who had moral and physical courage to endure and perpetuate the highest and best. Those who were attracted to the expedition were sifted and sifted again. Only the very best of English character and blood could stand the test. Rev. Samuel Atkins Eliot, a well-known Boston clergyman, and a scholar in matters historical, in a recent address stated that after England had been searched for the best, these were sifted and sifted again until only the very finest remained eligible for the high office of settling the new colony.

Doubtless friends of JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE were turning eager, adventurous eyes toward the new world. His father had died in 1618, dividing his estate among his sons and daughters, a goodly heritage for each in money and possessions, as the will discloses. His mother, Margaret (Mayse), had died two years later. His brothers and sisters had no doubt married and settled in homes of their own, one at least known to have married well — into the royal house of Essex. There was no longer anything to hold him in the old world, seething with turmoil and injustice. There is little doubt that he sailed with the Company that accompanied the new Governor, John Winthrop, to Massachusetts Bay.

His splendid allotment of land at Watertown would indicate it. Situated within half a mile of Sir Richard Saltonstall's plantation, on the fertile banks of Fresh Pond, a most desirable location, this ownership could have fallen only to one of the first comers to Watertown. In the official list of allotments of Watertown, July 25, 1636, John Coolidge heads the list, numbered "Lott 1," with thirty acres. His homestall of twelve acres was bounded by the Cambridge line on the north; by David Fiske's homestall on the east; by the Pond Road on the south; and by William Paine's homestall on the west. Here he and his sons remained for many generations. The inventory of his estate in 1691 showed he possessed his homestall-house and twelve acres; sixty-five acres of remote meadow; ten acres of woodland; four acres in Rock meadow; six acres of swamp land; another homestall purchased of David Fiske after the original allotment; thirty acres of dividend land; fourteen acres against Fresh Pond; ten acres in Pondville; and eighty acres of farm lot. Some of these lands were purchased after the first allotment, he being grantee originally of nine lots. In the first inventory of Grants and Possessions, as ordered by the Courts of 1634–5, and of 1639, the index shows John Coolidge's name as 37th in a list of 90. It is said that the frame for John Coolidge's house was brought from England, and that the house was still standing after 1800.

John Coolidge was admitted freeman, May 25, 1636. He was first elected selectman of Watertown in 1638. Thereafter he served in this capacity for forty years off and on, — 1638–42; 1664–69; 1677, 1680 and 1682. On Sept. 3, 1635, the Court ordered a plantation to be settled about two miles above the falls of the Charles River. Among the original petitioners for this settlement, that later became Dedham, was John Coolidge, but he did not leave Watertown to go to this plantation.

All of the above facts have been stated to indicate that John Coolidge — in order to have had the allotments he had, in order to have petitioned for the Dedham settlement, and to have been elected selectman as early as 1638 — must have been in the town sufficiently long to have become known and trusted by his fellow citizens. Bond states that many men did not sign the covenant for Watertown in July, 1630, because they were not church members and were not allowed to do so. Many were never admitted freemen for the same reason. They could hold public office by taking the oath of fidelity, but to become a freeman a man had to be a church member. That John Coolidge's name is not found among the records of Governor Winthrop does not prove that he was not among the first settlers. Bond states that some forty families were not listed in the covenant because they were not church members. Bond goes further; he specifically states that it is probable that John Coolidge was among the first settlers. That the officials of Watertown think so is shown by the copy of the church covenant dated July 30, 1630, in which his name is listed, this covenant being today in the Unitarian Church, which is the descendant of the Congregational Church which was formed in Watertown July 30, 1630.

An argument that may be used to the effect that John Coolidge could not have been at Watertown in 1630, since there is no record of births of his children, before the birth of his fifth child, Mary, in 1637, has little foundation. With over seventy families in the town it stands to reason that there must have been at least one birth and more than two deaths in 1630, yet the latter is all that is recorded for the year. In 1631 there are no births recorded, and only two deaths. In 1632 four births are recorded and only one death. This alone is proof enough that Simon and Nathaniel Coolidge could have been among the births that there must have been among these families before the records began to be kept, which was evidently between 1635 and 1637, probably the necessity being discovered at the same time that town records were incorporated.

The intensely interesting history of the settling of Watertown has, perhaps, no place here, but it may be said that between February and April, 1630, seventeen ships sailed with Colonists from England. On April 8, four ships, the "Arbella," the "Jewell," the "Ambrose," and the "Talbot," sailed from the Isle of Wight, bringing the Governor (John Winthrop), the deputy governor (Thomas Dudley) and Sir Richard Saltonstall, with many others prominent in early history of Massachusetts Bay. The "Arbella" arrived at Salem June 12. Not satisfied with Salem, Governor Winthrop, Sir Richard Saltonstall, and others, went on June 17 — surely a day destined to be historical — to reconnoiter the bay for a place of settlement, and selected the peninsular of Charlestown. Soon after this, before July 15, a large portion of the inhabitants, dissatisfied with Charlestown, with Sir Richard as leader, and with Rev. George Phillips as pastor, proceeded about four miles up the Charles River. The fertile fields, the land of much water, as the Indians so aptly termed it, satisfied their desires, and within forty-eight days after landing at Salem, Watertown affairs had become sufficiently matured to organize a church, with a covenant signed, the first name of the settlement Sir Richard's Plantation having been changed to Watertown.

The history of the lives of JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE at Watertown is most absorbing. His name in Watertown records is associated with many vital matters. Not only did he serve his town, as selectman, but he served on many important committees, settling disputes as to land allotments, and other important matters. In 1658 he was deputy to the Great and General Court of Massachusetts Bay; and all through the years there are to be found records at Watertown and Cambridge where he inventoried estates, drew up wills, and otherwise acted as legal advisor and scribe, proving him a man of education and ability, and not the "yeoman" and uneducated farmer that is sometimes stated of him by those who have not looked into his history. He was beloved by his fellow townsmen, and he and his brave, loyal wife Mary led full, rich lives. He died May 7, 1691, aged 88, and is buried in the old graveyard where also lie so many other Coolidges of Watertown history, at the corner of Arlington and Mt. Auburn streets. Mary followed him in less than four months, Aug. 22, 1691, also aged 88. Looking at those old gray stones, it is borne in upon one that Mary could not have stayed longer here, but had to follow soon the comrade of the years, whose joys and sorrows, adventures and high ideals she had followed and shared, and whose success she had doubtless inspired.

Of the eight children of JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE, there are known descendants of five, namely, of JOHN, the eldest, born in England, scion of the Sherborn-Natick branch of the family and of some of the Boston descendants; of SIMON, the second son, ancestor of the Vermont branch, of the Brookline branch, and of many in the vicinity of Bolton and Hudson, as well as of many today residing in Watertown; of NATHANIEL, third son and fourth child, whose early descendants were of Watertown and Cambridge, and many of whose later ones were at Colrain, Leyden, New York State, thence westward; of MARY, the second daughter, whose descendants have remained to a great extent in the home town, Watertown; and of JONATHAN, the youngest child, scion of many of the Boston branch of the family.

The record of the births of these eight children, so far as it has been able to ascertain them, is as follows:

1. JOHN, born in England, in 1628 or 1629, came to Massachusetts Bay as a small child; m. (1st) Nov. 14, 1655, HANNAH LIVERMORE; m. (2d) Sept. 16, 1679, MARY (WELLINGTON) MADDOCK.
2. ELIZABETH (proof that she is a daughter of JOHN COOLIDGE is lacking); m. (1st) at Cambridge, June 17, 1656 (his second wife) GILBERT CRACKBONE; m. (2d) at Cambridge, Mar. 26, 1673, RICHARD ROBBINS. She seems to have died s.p.
3. SIMON, born at Watertown, doubtless in 1632, since he stated in court in 1659 that he was about 27 years of age; m. (1st) Nov. 17, 1658, HANNAH BARRON; m. (2d) Jan. 19, 1681/2, PRISCILLA ROGERS.
4. NATHANIEL, b. at Watertown, probably in 1634; m. Oct. 15, 1657, MARY BRIGHT.
5. MARY, b. at Watertown, Oct. 14, 1637; m. there, Sept. 19, 1655, ISAAC MIXER.
6. STEPHEN, b. at Watertown, Oct. 28, 1639; m. REBECCA ——. She died at Watertown, Apr. 15, 1702. He died there, s.p., Feb. 20, 1710 11. As a soldier in King Philip's War he has an interesting and courageous record. He was stationed at the garrison at Billerica, Jan. 25, 1675 6. He served under Lieut. Edward Oakes, and was credited with 19s. 8d. on Apr. 24, 1676. He also served in Capt. John Cutler's Company, for which he was credited with 2s. 6d. on July 24, 1676. He was credited with £1. 20s. 2d. to Watertown, Aug. 24, 1676. (See Bodge's "Soldiers in King Philip's War," pp. 85, 286, 356, 376.) His father willed to him the original Coolidge homestead in Watertown, and as he had no children, he was lovingly cared for in his old age by his nieces, Mary and Martha Coolidge, the daughters of his younger brother Jonathan, who was appointed administrator of his estate, Mar. 5, 1710 11.
7. OBADIAH, b. at Watertown, Apr. 15, 1642; d. there unm., July 11, 1663.
8. JONATHAN, b. at Watertown, Mar. 10, 1646 7; m. Dec. 3, 1679, MARTHA RICE.

Will of David Fisk of Watertown, drawn up September 10, 1660, by John Coolidge, the Colonist, still in existence, is typical of the legal work of our ancestor

CHAPTER III

DESCENDANTS OF THE ELDEST SON, JOHN COOLIDGE, SHERBORN-NATICK BRANCH OF THE COOLIDGE FAMILY

ENSIGN JOHN COOLIDGE, as he is most frequently called in the official town records of Watertown, was, so far as can be ascertained, born in Cottenham, Cambridgeshire, Eng., in 1628 or 1629, and came, with his parents, JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE, the Colonists, to Massachusetts Bay, where they settled in July, 1630, at Watertown.

Descendants who can claim this JOHN COOLIDGE as their ancestor, who is spoken of as the scion of the Sherborn-Natick branch, can claim the honor of descent from the eldest born, and he a son, with his father's name, JOHN. His career, too, was a most active one. Through his alliance with the Livermores, the Shermans, the Wellingtons and the Palgraves, the families of his two wives, they can trace descent to these substantial old families of England.

Ensign JOHN COOLIDGE was a carpenter by trade, and in this capacity served in King Philip's War in a manner that saved many families from massacre. In early days an ensign was equivalent to a second lieutenant. In June, 1666, he was chosen sergeant for this service, and is so called through 1679. On Oct. 25, 1675, he, with his young son JOHN, learning the trade of carpenter from his father, and, no doubt, thrilled to take a part in this war, went to Brookfield to build lodgings for the soldiers, and also to build blockades for protection of the settlers against Indian attack. He was later chosen ensign by the selectmen. Record of their service can be found in "Bodge's Soldiers in King Philip's War," pages 116, 376. The son JOHN, b. Feb. 19, 1661-2, was, as can be seen, only 14 years of age at that time, and for this reason the question is sometimes raised by those who do not know the family history as to this soldier being the elder, or father, but he is recorded as the youngest soldier in this war, and there is no doubt of his service. In those perilous days, and in the early years of this country, youth matured quickly, and those who would be known as "boys" today were playing a man's part — seriously, earnestly, successfully — then.

Town records of the next twenty years contain many missions for Ensign John Coolidge, in his capacity as carpenter, and in military and civil duties. For example, on Nov. 30, 1686, he was chosen by the town meeting as one of three to make the town and pasture rates (assessor, it would be called today). In 1667 the selectmen contracted with him to build the new bridge at the mill. At town meeting on Jan. 26, 1679, "Sergeant" John Coolidge was appointed to serve with the selectmen in planning for the enlargement of the meeting house, with galleries so arranged that the youth of the town could be better "inspected during publick service." Earlier in his career, 1671, he had been town constable, so that this combination of his ability with his profession as carpenter is adequate proof that he was looked upon as one who knew how to arrange for, and to maintain, law and order. There are many more such interesting records that attest the confidence in which he was held in his community.

In 1684, and again from 1686 to 1690, he served as selectman of Watertown.

By his will, dated Feb. 7, 1690/1, proved Apr. 7, 1691 (Middlesex Probate Files 5095), he directed that £10 be set aside to bring up his youngest daughter MARY (mother, MARY WELLINGTON MADDOCK), and that then his estate be divided into seven equal shares, of which his son JOHN, then living at Sherborn, was to have two shares, his son RICHARD two shares, and his daughters ELISABETH, SARAH and MARY each one share. He named his sons JOHN and RICHARD as executors, and the will was witnessed by William Shattuck, and SIMON COOLIDGE (his brother).

Something of the parentage of HANNAH LIVERMORE, first wife of Ensign JOHN COOLIDGE, and of MARY WELLINGTON, his second wife, may be of interest, as showing their background. JOHN LIVERMORE, father of Hannah, is undoubtedly ancestor of all the Livermores in this country, and he can lay claim to the Livermore families of Little and Great Thurlow, adjoining parishes in the County of Suffolk, England, situated about seven miles northwest of Clare. The wills of the Livermores in these parishes indicate them people of means and substance. The name is written at times Leathermore and Lithermore. He embarked at Ipswich, England, for New England, in April, 1634, then aged 28, in the "Francis," John Cutting, master. He was admitted freeman, May 6, 1635. By trade he was a potter. Whether he settled at once at Watertown is not definitely known, but he was there in 1642, and from that date held many offices of trust, among them selectman repeatedly.

An interesting fact is that he brought with him, in 1634, his year-old daughter Hannah, just as did JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE bring their year (or so) old son, in 1630, so that these two, destined to become the ancestors and founders of the eldest branch of the Coolidge family in America, with the added distinction of carrying forward the name of JOHN, crossed the broad Atlantic to meet for this destiny. It should be noted, too, that not only did his daughter Hannah marry into the Coolidge family, but his grandson, Daniel, the son of Hannah's brother, Samuel Livermore, married MARY COOLIDGE (1. 1. 14.), the daughter of JOHN COOLIDGE and MARY (WELLINGTON) MADDOCK, the second wife. This Mary Coolidge was the half sister of John, who married Daniel's aunt Hannah, a relationship that becomes somewhat involved, therefore.

John Livermore's will, dated Jan. 10, 1682-3, mentions various lands, such as "Cowpen Farm," 40 acres of upland, 12 acres of meadow, 50 acres of dividend land, 2 acres of patch meadow, 4 acres of Pigsgussett meadow, 6 acres of salt marsh, 1 acre at Chester Brook, 5 acres of upland on rocks, these lands being left to the three youngest children of JOHN and HANNAH (LIVERMORE) COOLIDGE, — Elizabeth, Daniel and Sarah, evidently; and besides these he had deeded, in 1681, his homestead, 34 acres, his dwelling house, and 20 acres of woodland to his son Samuel as a recompense, since "Samuel had been a comfort and support," Samuel being the father of Daniel Livermore, who married Mary Coolidge (1. 1. 14.).

On her mother's side (Grace Sherman), Hannah Livermore is descended from the Shermans of Dedham County, Essex, England. There were several early settlers in New England of this name: Edmund, a selectman of Watertown in 1636, returned to England about 1648; his brother, Rev. John; their cousin, Capt. John, b. in Dedham County, 1613, came to America, 1634, a land surveyor; selectman many times between 1637-80; town clerk, 1648, and often thereafter; representative, 1651, 1653, 1663 and 1682; chosen ensign, 1654; captain, 1680 or 1681, and he was steward of Harvard College, 1662; and Richard Sherman, merchant of Boston, whose will, dated Apr. 7, 1660, mentions John Livermore as a kinsman. This would indicate that he was in the immediate family of Grace Sherman, possibly her brother. Capt. John Sherman married Martha, daughter of Roger, and daughter or step-daughter of Grace, Porter. Grace Porter[1] in her will mentions John Coolidge as her brother. The author believes that she did so because Hannah Livermore's mother, Grace Sherman, was the sister of Capt. John Sherman, and Hannah married John Coolidge's son, Ensign John, so making them all brothers and sisters in law.

Ensign JOHN COOLIDGE'S second wife, MARY WELLINGTON, was the only daughter of a wealthy planter, ROGER WELLINGTON, born about 1609–10, who is listed as one of the earliest proprietors in Watertown, and who became quite a noted character for his independence of spirit. He did not take the oath of freeman until he was 80 years old. His homestall lot, in 1642–44, contained 16 acres, besides which he owned 7 other lots containing 145 acres. Later he bought over 22 more acres, about 10 acres of which, with dwelling house, barn, etc., were for a settlement upon his son John.

MARY WELLINGTON'S mother was MARY PALGRAVE, eldest daughter of Dr. Richard Palgrave, one of the first physicians of Charlestown, where he applied to be admitted freeman, Oct. 30, 1630. He was spoken of by William Gager, as "a right godly man, and a skillful chyrurgeon." By his will, dated Oct. 1, 1651, he left the substantial estate of over £313.

[1] There have been many conjectures as to the identity of this Grace Porter, because she called John Coolidge "brother" in her will. Some have claimed she was the sister of John Coolidge, or that she was the sister of his wife Mary ——. This does not seem probable. Had she been Mary's sister, she would undoubtedly have mentioned her in her will which was dated in 1662, since Mary outlived Grace by thirty years, until 1691.

Mr. George W. Chamberlain, in his records of the Coolidges of Cambridgeshire, Eng. (New England Register, Oct., 1926), says that the discovery of the maiden name of this Grace Porter would throw light, perhaps, upon the parentage of John Coolidge, or of his wife Mary ——. He further states that she was the widow of John Sherman, who was buried at Great Horkesley, County Essex, England, Jan. 14, 1615 16; that she was the widow of Thomas Rogers, who d. at Watertown, Nov. 12, 1638; and of Roger Porter, who came from Long Sutton, County Southampton, Eng., in 1638, and died at Watertown, Apr. 3, 1654. He adds that John Coolidge in his will named Capt. John Sherman (Grace Porter's son) "cousin."

These facts being correct, the author believes that it is not through relationship of the first husband, Sherman, that she is related to Capt. Sherman, but solely as his mother-in-law, as her daughter Martha Porter married him. The author thinks, further, that Grace Porter called John Coolidge "brother," because his son, Ensign John, married Hannah Livermore, whose mother was by this fact indicated to be the sister of Capt. Sherman. The author believes, too, that this is the most satisfactory explanation of the fact that John Coolidge, in his will dated 1681, calls Capt. John Sherman "cousin." This would be the most natural term if related by marriage of his son.

But, best of all, the author is glad to state that she has discovered the maiden name of this much-married Grace Sherman-Rogers-Porter, and it proves conclusively that she was not the sister of John Coolidge. She was GRACE MAKIN, daughter of Tobias Makin, who married Katherine ——. He resided at Fingringhoe, County Essex, England, and his will was dated May 14, 1610.

So much for the heritage of Ensign John and Hannah (Livermore) Coolidge's children on their mother's side. A word may be interesting as to the family of Bonds into which three of their children married, all being the children of William and Sarah (Biscoe) Bond.

In "Bond's History of Watertown," page 47, it is stated that there is reason to believe that William Bond came in 1630 to Watertown with his aunt, Elizabeth (sister of his father), wife of Deacon Ephraim Child, she being childless, and William being one of a large family. He was the son of Thomas and Elizabeth Bond of Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk County, Eng., where he was baptized in the Church of St. James, Sept. 8, 1625. His father, in England, bequeathed to him money, but, naturally, not lands. On referring to Doomsday Book, it will be found that numerous estates were held in England by families of the name of Bond in the time of Edward the Confessor, and through later years down to William the Conqueror. They held estates in eleven counties, and the most distinguished families trace their lineage to Earth and Holewood in Cornwall. William Bond held many important offices and fulfilled many trusts. He was often employed in taking inventories, writing wills and deeds and settling estates. He was selectman, town clerk, a captain, a justice of the peace, a member of the Council of Safety in 1689; often represented Watertown, and was elected Speaker of the General Court in 1691–93 and 1695, being the first Speaker elected under the new Royal Charter, which united the Colonies of Plymouth and Massachusetts Bay into one colony. He also served on the committee of three, appointed by law by the County Court, to rebuild Lancaster, after its destruction by the Indians.

William Bond's wife, Sarah Biscoe, was the daughter, the fourth child, of Nathaniel Biscoe (sometimes called Brisco or Briscoe), known as "the rich tanner" of Watertown, where he settled probably about 1638 or 1639. His family was of Cumberland and Sussex, there being a very interesting coat of arms, of three greyhounds courant, belonging to one of the branches. That he was a man of pride and daring is shown in his outspoken expression of convictions in a pamphlet which he wrote and circulated in 1642, against the way of supporting ministers; and in 1651 his displeasure over the "prevalent ecclesiastical intolerance" made him return to England. That the family was highly regarded is evidenced by the mention of the eldest son, also Nathaniel, by Governor Winthrop as "a gentleman born." This Nathaniel, brother of Sarah, was in 1639 usher of Nathaniel Eaton, "the first person who had charge of the Institution" (Harvard College).

[2] Date given in Bond's "History of Watertown"; family record gives Jan. 4, 1821.

1. 1. 6. JOHN COOLIDGE, son of Ensign JOHN and HANNAH (LIVERMORE), b. at Watertown, Feb. 19, 1661 2; d. at Sherborn, Jan. 18, 1713/14, age 51 years, 11 months (gravestone). Bur. at Sherborn Centre, in the old cemetery beside the beautiful War Memorial given by William Bradford Homer Dowse to the town on the anniversary of its two hundred and fiftieth date of incorporation, and also in sight of the home of Mrs. Deborah (Dowse) Coolidge, who m. a descendant of this JOHN — Lowell Coolidge. JOHN COOLIDGE was the youngest soldier in King Philip's War, a carpenter, learning his trade from his father, and his outstanding record in this war is sometimes credited to his father, who also served therein, because readers cannot believe that so young a man could have accomplished so much. He removed to Sherborn before 1681, and a desc. still lives on the old farm, where he was a man of influence and substance, being town clerk for five years and selectman for ten years. He m. about 1683, MARY ——[1], b. about 1662, d. at Sherborn, Sept. 13, 1724, age 62 years, 9 months.

They were members of the First Church in Sherborn (Congregational), as were all their children.

Children, born at Sherborn:

1. Isaac, b. Apr. 21, 1685; m. Apr. 26, 1710, HANNAH MORSE.
2. Daniel, b. Jan. 6, 1686/7; d. May 20, 1707.
3. John, b. Aug. 31, 1689; d. Jan. 23, 1711/12.
4. Hannah, b. Jan. 8, 1692; m. June 2, 1726, Dr. JONATHAN FAIRBANKS.
5. Sarah, b. Oct. 13, 1694; m. Feb. 3, 1719/20, NATHANIEL MORSE of Medfield.
6. James, b. Oct. 17, 1696; m. Sept. 12, 1728, FREELOVE MONK.
7. Mary, b. May 13, 1701; m. July 13, 1727, JONATHAN RUSSELL.
8. Peter, b. Feb. 17, 1702/3; m. (1st) Apr. 12, 1723, ABIGAIL WHEELOCK; m. (2d) Jan. 2, 1728/9, MARGARET ELLIS.
9. Amos, b. May 16, 1705; m. (1st) Dec. 25, 1728, MARY LELAND; one dau. Sarah, b. and d. Nov. 29, 1741; m. (2d) at Sudbury, Feb. 25, 1768, ZERUIAH BROWN, probably dau. of —— Adams, and wid. of Samuel Brown of Sudbury. AMOS COOLIDGE was a captain of Sherborn. He d. at Sherborn, Sept. 27, 1782 or 1783 (different authorities).

1. 1. 6. 1. MAJOR ISAAC COOLIDGE, son of JOHN and MARY ——[1] of Sherborn, b. Apr. 21, 1685; d. June 2,

[1] In one old record the compiler finds that her name is given MARY MATTOCKS. This is stated for what it may be worth. There is a question whether or not this has been confused with the second wife of Ensign John, who married Henry Maddock.

1761; m. Apr. 26, 1710, Hannah Morse, b. at Sherborn, Apr. 5, 1689, d. Dec. 11, 1774, dau. of Capt. Joseph and Hannah (Badcock).

He was a major of militia; served three years as a selectman, and five years as representative in the General Court. On Sherborn town records he is given the title of esquire, this being his title as justice of the peace, and in this capacity his signature is to be found on many important public and personal documents, in town service, and in conveyance of lands and deeds. A town record of Apr. 25, 1734, states that when Mr. Samuel Porter was unanimously chosen to be their gospel minister, Lieut. [then] Isaac Coolidge was one of the committee chosen to "treat with the Rev. Gentleman." Another town record, May 19, 1752, states that Isaac Coolidge, Esq., was chosen to represent the town in a Great and General Court to be convened for His Majesty's service at Concord, May 27, 1752, this evidently being the beginning of the service which earned him the title of "Honorable." According to his will, he left what was a handsome property for those days, — over £760, and land and farms which he willed to his sons, Capt. John and Joseph, and to his daughters he left considerable money.

Major Isaac's wife, Hannah Morse, was the dau. of Capt. Joseph Morse, whose name is found upon all important committees and in all public affairs, and whose history as one of the influential leaders of Sherborn is extremely interesting. Capt. Morse owned and inherited much property; in company with Capt. Joseph Ware, built the first mill on Sewell's Brook; subscribed to the first petition for the incorporation of Sherborn; was one of the first group of men assembled Jan. 4, 1674 5 to order the affairs of the town; and signed the second petition, Oct. 7, 1674, submitted to the honored Governor and his deputies in General Court. He contributed toward the sum needed to effect the exchange of Sherborn and Natick lands; was rated in 1686 to extinguish the Indian title; served sixteen years as selectman; represented Sherborn in the General Court in 1715; very often acted as town moderator; was a good scribe and employed in writing conveyances. At his house, public worship was first set up Mar., 1685, when Rev. Daniel Gookin was ordained.

Hannah Morse's mother was Hannah Badcock, dau. of Robert Badcock, who came from Milton to Sherborn, and whose name is found with Capt. Morse's among the group of fourteen to order town affairs, 1674 5. He was one of a committee appointed to treat with Capt. Gookin for exchange and purchase of Natick-Sherborn lands. He was the grandson of James B. Badcock, who was b. in Essex County, Eng., in the 1580's, and who removed with the Pilgrims to Holland, and came in the ship "Anne" to Plymouth, 1623.

Six children, born at Sherborn:

1. Hannah, b. Mar. 18, 1711; m. Apr., 1732, THOMAS RUSSELL.

11. Hannah, b. Apr. 2, 1752; m. Mar. 25, 1779, her cousin, SAMUEL COOLIDGE. (See 1. 1. 6. 1. 2. 8.)
12. Samuel, b. Nov. 18, 1754.

1. 1. 6. 1. 2. CAPT. JOHN COOLIDGE of Sherborn and Natick, son of Major ISAAC, Esq., and HANNAH (MORSE), b. at Sherborn, June 21, 1714; m. at Woburn, May 29, 1739, ANNA RUSSELL, b. Feb. 10, 1715, d. Jan. 18, 1782, dau. of John and Joanna (Winn) of Woburn.

Capt. JOHN COOLIDGE was deputy sheriff under King George III, and was commissioned captain of the Natick Company in Middlesex Militia, Oct. 1, 1762, French and Indian War, under the same King, by His Excellency Francis Bernard, Captain General and Governor over Massachusetts Bay. He is the only John Coolidge recorded in official records of Massachusetts to have received a commission as captain. This commission is today in existence, handed down to his son John, and to that son John's grandson, John Henry Coolidge. At the time of the Revolution he was at Natick, to which town he removed about 1745, and pledged his life and his fortune to the cause of the Colonists. On account of his years he did not enlist, but his four sons did, from the days of minutemen, and acquired interesting records. He owned much property, his farms and woodlots being purchased from the Indians.

They belonged to the Congregational Church of Natick, where all of their descendants attended.

Eleven children:

1. Anna, b. at Sherborn, May 5, 1741; m. May 23, 1770, AARON MOULTON of Needham.
2. Mary, b. at Sherborn, July 28, 1742.
3. Elizabeth, b. at Sherborn, Dec. 17, 1744; d. Jan. 5, 1750/1.
4. Isaac, b. at Natick, Aug. 29, 1747; m. May 23, 1770, ABIGAIL BACON of Needham.
5. Abigail, b. July 10, 1749; m. Oct. 21, 1770, ISAAC BACON of Needham, b. Oct. 25, 1748, son of Stephen and Ruth.
6. Hannah, b. Dec. 28, 1750; d. Jan. 28, 1751.
7. John, b. Apr. 11, 1752; m. July 27, 1779, EUNICE EAMES.
8. Samuel, b. Aug. 13, 1753; m. Mar. 25, 1779, his cousin, HANNAH RUSSELL.

10. Elizabeth, b. Nov. 8, 1756; d. Mar. 6, 1757.

11. Elizabeth, b. Oct. 16, 1758; m. Apr. 16, 1778, EBENEZER EAMES of Framingham, b. Apr. 26, 1756, son of Samuel and Eunice (Fuller), and brother of Eunice, who m. Elizabeth's brother, John Coolidge.

1. 1. 6. 1. 2. 4. ISAAC COOLIDGE of Sherborn, son of Capt. JOHN and ANNA (RUSSELL), b. Aug. 29, 1747; d. Mar. 5, 1822; m. May 23, 1770, ABIGAIL BACON of Needham, b. Nov. 16, 1747, probably dau. of Stephen and Ruth, and sister of Isaac, Bacon, who m. Abigail Coolidge (see 1. 1. 6. 1. 2. 5.).

ISAAC COOLIDGE was an "old-time surveyor" of repute. Some of his plans are in the possession of descendants, most interesting relics of the past. He and his two sons, JOHN and LUTHER, surveyed the town of Gouldsboro-in-the-Bay, Maine, in 1790. He was a minuteman, and served later in the Revolution, as did his three brothers, JOHN, THOMAS and SAMUEL. He served in Capt. Joseph Morse's Company, Col. Samuel Bullard's Regiment; marched on the Lexington alarm, Apr. 19, 1775; was sergeant in Capt. Morse's Company in Col. John Patterson's Regiment; enlisted Apr. 24, 1775, and also in 1780. Old records in possession of descendants show that he served on committees, and individually, looking after supplies, funds and paying soldiers for service, at Rhode Island. His signature is preserved on these.

1. 1. 6. 1. 2. 4. 3. ASA COOLIDGE of Natick and Orange, son of ISAAC and ABIGAIL (BACON), b. May 21, 1774; d. Sept. 14, 1822; m. at Natick (int.), Sept. 3, 1797, ANNA LORING JENKINSON of Hopkinton, b. 1773, d. July 6, 1846, dau. of Joseph of Sudbury, and Faithe (Loring).

Faithe Loring is listed on the church records of the first Congregational Church at Natick as one of its original members.

Asa Coolidge removed to Orange from his farm on the shores of Lake Cochituate May 1, 1810. In this town he was deputy sheriff, and his kind heart often caused him to pay the debts of those he was supposed to imprison for the offense of debt, although as a farmer he struggled to bring up his large family of eleven children, eight of whom were born at Natick and three at Orange. He was lieutenant of a military company about 1810.

Eleven children:

1. Faithe Loring, b. July 7, 1799, named for her grandmother; d. Jan. 22, 1867; m. Mar. 29, 1829, WILLIAM BULLARD of Orange. Three sons, who became known as the "Bullard Boys," prosperous lumber men:
   1. Loring.

Lang of Boston, b. at Pownal, Me., dau. of Josiah and Betsey. Dr. John Bacon Coolidge was a pioneer in the dental profession, and many of his discoveries have made for the good of humanity. As a young man he studied with Dr. Hoyt of Natick, a physician, taking over his practice when he became ill. He was the first to engage an office in the Nathaniel Clark Block, Natick, physicians at that time doing the work of pulling teeth. In 1863 he responded to President Lincoln's call for volunteers to the thousands of wounded and sick soldiers; administered to the heroes of Antietam, and later at Harper's Ferry. He opened an office on Winter Street, Boston, then on Temple Place, and finally in a large house on Waltham Street. He was the first dentist to attempt treatment of abcesses, and to fill the roots of teeth; this being the result of accidentally striking into the canal while endeavoring to save a tooth and to relieve a patient from pain. Boston dentists, learning of this marvelous achievement, asked him to give weekly talks on his various discoveries, and from these resulted the formation of the Boston Dental Society, which in 1895, on Dr. Coolidge's retirement as president of this school, became merged with Tufts College, and became their dental school. He lectured for twenty-seven years; had the distinction of signing his own diploma from the college, as a member of the Board in 1868, and of his professorship in 1879; and was honored in Brussels, Belgium, with a certificate of honor for his many dental discoveries and services. Two of his discoveries were the use of nitrous oxide gas as an anæsthetic (which use he taught), and the invention of the gas pressure regulator on a vulcanizer which all dentists use. Most of the instruments seen on dentists' benches were his inventions, also. Resided at Natick, where three children were born.

Children:

1. Henry Earle, b. Sept. 3, 1848; d. Apr. 1, 1849.
2. Francis Henry, b. June 5, 1850.
3. Ella M., b. July 15, 1851; m. Oct. 10, 1871, Edward Horatio Wilson, a desc. of Betsey (Coolidge) and Jesse Morse, Jr. (see 1. 1. 6. 1. 2. 7. 6. 2. 1.).

1. 1. 6. 1. 2. 7. JOHN COOLIDGE, JR., of Natick, son of Capt. John and Anna (Russell), b. Apr. 11, 1752; d. May 29, 1835 (grave record); m. July 27, 1779, Eunice Eames, b. Sept. 9, 1758, d. June 24, 1812, dau. of Samuel (of Framingham) and Eunice Fuller (of Newton).

John Coolidge, Jr., was born at his father's homestead, where grant of land was obtained by Indian deed, West Natick. He inherited of his father's property, lands and money, public records of which show him a man of wealth and influence, highly respected in his home town. He was a soldier in the Revolution, with title of corporal and sergeant; a minuteman; was at the Battle of Lexington, and later with various enlistments, including Rhode Island service. In Capt. Benjamin Bullard's Company, Col. Jonathan Brewer's Regiment, he was at the Battle of Bunker Hill (where he was left for dead on the field, hit over the head by a Britisher's musket, but he proved very much alive), and later was of the Main Guard at Prospect Hill, under General Greene, and at White Plains, N. Y. (State Records). Documents that have come down in the family show that he was appointed to hire "three-year men," in the vicinity of Natick and Sherborn, and that the Continental Congress authorized him to take charge of men and supplies for Rhode Island service. Several documents show that, with other patriotic citizens, he advanced money to pay the soldiers and for purchasing supplies, the amount opposite his pledge being the largest on the list.

Considering all his services, it is pleasing that he lived to be present at the laying of the corner stone of Bunker Hill Monument, on the fiftieth anniversary of that battle (1825), being one of the few remaining soldiers who lived to ride with their distinguished guest, General Lafayette, on that occasion. His signature as being present that day is on record at the State House, Adjutant-General's Department.

He built on the original grant of land, beside his own home, another house which he gave to his two unmarried daughters, Nelly and Hitty. His estate gave to each of his children considerable in the division.

He m. Eunice Eames, the dau. of Samuel (of Framingham), and Eunice (Fuller) of Newton. Eunice Fuller was descended from John Fuller, b. 1611, who is of much interest in Newton as one of its first settlers (1644), purchasing of Joseph Cooke of Cambridge, in Dec., 1658, 750 acres of land for $900 (a considerable fortune in those days), that now comprise West Newton, a part of Waltham, on the river, and Auburndale, to Newton Lower Falls. (He and Edward Jackson were the two largest landowners in the village.) Eunice Fuller has the distinction of descent through each son John. John Fuller, Sr., m. Elizabeth, and his son John, b. 1645 (brother of Joseph, who m. Lydia Jackson of the old Jackson family of Newton), m. 1682, Abigail Boylston, of the family for whom famous Boylston Street was named. Their son John, b. Sept. 2, 1685, m. Aug., 1709, Sarah ——; and their dau. Eunice, b.

Aug. 6, 1725, m. Dec. 13, 1750, SAMUEL EAMES of Framingham, son of Samuel and Patience (Twitchell).

Eunice Eames, on her father's side, was the great-granddaughter of Thomas Eames, b. in England, 1618, who came to the colonies as early as 1634. He served in the Pequot Indian War in 1637. He was voted into inhabitancy of Sherborn by the town meeting Jan. 4, 1674, coming from Dedham. Morse, in his "History of Sherborn," says of him: "The first planters appear to have been very anxious to retain him in their community." He became one of the leading citizens, being chosen on all important committees, among them those with the delicate task of treating with the Indians as to purchase of their lands, and he was chosen selectman in 1678, when for the first time men (five) were chosen to serve the town for a period of ten years, a token of the confidence in which he was held. He was one of a committee appointed to build the first meeting house, and this was built on land which had been granted to him. He settled at what is now Mount Waite, Framingham, his home being marked with boulder and tablet, as it was here that he returned Feb. 1, 1676, after a trip to Cambridge, where he was seeking protection from the Indians, known to be in uprising, to find his home lying in ashes, and the massacred bodies of his wife and four children, and four or five other children taken into captivity by the Indians. Three of them escaped and returned from the West, following the rising sun. SAMUEL was one of these, b. 1664/5, then about 12 years old, father of Eunice's father, also named Samuel.

b. 1786, d. at Cambridge, 1841, dau. of Deacon Isaac of Needham.

At the time of Nabby's death they were residing at Boston, where they were enjoying their daughter Emeline and her husband, Deacon James W. Converse, and their children. After his wife's death Nathan returned to his home town, where he resided, highly regarded by his fellow townsmen.

One child:

1. Emeline, b. at Boston, Sept. 5, 1810; d. Oct. 29, 1891; m. Sept. 5, 1833, Deacon James W. Converse[1], b. Jan. 11, 1808, d. Aug. 26, 1894, son of Elisha of Thompson and Woodstock, Conn., and Stoneham, Mass., and Betsey (Wheaton). He was engaged in world-wide shoe and leather industry, firm of Field & Converse, Broad Street, Boston, for many years. When the Mechanics Bank of Boston organized he was director; later its president. He was deacon of Baptist Church for fifty years, being elected in 1837, by Federal Street Church; then at Jamaica Plain, where he resided from 1845 to 1865, when he returned to Boston, with residence on West Newton Street, and later in a mansion on Beacon Street, which he built. He was deeply interested in all church work, aiding the Mission School and Tremont Temple, which enterprises he largely made successful, and using his large fortune generously for aiding others.

   Three children:

   1. James W., Jr., b. at Boston, Jan. 9, 1844; d. at Grand Rapids, Mich., May 1, 1876; m. June 20, 1871, Harriet Crickmay. He was among the first to volunteer when the Civil War broke out, enlisting Oct. 2, 1861; in Co. H, 24th Regt. Mass. Inf.; rose from sergeant to 2d lieutenant in 47th Regt., Co. K; recommended for gallantry of action at Battle of Newbern. Upon expiration of this second enlistment (entered upon Nov. 30, 1862) serving under Col. Lucious March in defense of New Orleans, he helped recruit another regiment (strangely, at Tremont Temple, the building where his father had given so many services), and had just been elected captain when the war closed, and the regiment did not leave Boston. After the war he entered into business with his father, in Field & Converse Company, and upon his marriage he went to Grand Rapids, Mich., in the interests of his father's firm, where he carried forward many business enterprises of his father's with success.

[1] The Converse family has a most interesting early history and French and English background, with a coat of arms.

"Colonel" Alexander Coolidge was for nearly forty years Middlesex County coroner. He was selectman of Natick, and deacon in the Congregational Church. He was commissioned lieutenant of cavalry by His Excellency, Levi Lincoln, Governor of Massachusetts, April 24, 1828, this commission being in the possession of his granddaughters. He was always called Colonel Coolidge, perhaps because he was given this title while serving on the governor's staff, or possibly it was a courtesy title bestowed by his fellow citizens because of his prominence in public affairs.

The Leightons of Westford and Littleton were people of substance, and held many public offices. Francis Leighton, the father of Deacon Reuben (grandfather of Lydia), served in the Revolutionary War, rode to the Concord fight at daybreak with Capt. John Robinson of Westford, who commanded the minutemen, and served on a town committee to aid with men, money and supplies. Lydia was the sister of Ann Leighton, who m. William Coolidge (see 1. 1. 6. 1. 2. 9. 1. 2.).

The Kendalls were prominent in Framingham, where they held much property. They were desc. from Francis Kendall, one of the signers to the Town Orders for Woburn, Dec. 18, 1640, and selectman eighteen years. He was a miller, and the original millseat remains in possession of his descendants.

[1] These are out of order in dates of birth, but it seems better to give the second child last, as this is the one who has the descendants.

MULLIGAN, after studying law at Harvard College, was admitted to the Massachusetts bar in 1882. Besides following his profession, in which he has been entrusted with administration of large estates, and with legal work for large banking interests, he has been prominent in public affairs, not only in his home town, but in the state. He has been a member of the Natick School Board for twenty-four years; its chairman for sixteen years; he has been trustee (president) of the Public Library since 1907; president of the Natick Five Cents Savings Bank since 1906; trial justice of Middlesex County, 1892–1912; justice of the District Court of Natick since 1917; state senator, 1909–13; and a member of the Governor's Council, 1915–16. He is a member of various organizations, such as the American Bar Association, Massachusetts Bar Association, Middlesex County Bar Association; of Masonic Orders, of Military Order, Loyal Legion of the United States, and Sons of Veterans. He was president of the Coolidge Family Association, 1925–26. MINNA (RAWSON) MULLIGAN has attained the highest distinction in the club world that Massachusetts women can bestow, having been president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, 1911–13. She has served in various capacities in interesting clubs; was president of the Natick Woman's Club, 1903–05, and is now president of the Ex Club of Boston, taking office in 1929. She was grad. from Worcester High School in 1879; attended Wellesley College, 1881–82; and after that time taught at Rutland, Holden, Ashland, and finally at Clinton, where she was assistant in the high school, 1882–86. Both are members of the Natick Congregational Church. They reside at Natick.

Alexander and Lydia (Leighton), b. at West Natick, Sept. 22, 1839, in the Coolidge homestead on the original farm owned by his great-grandfather, Capt. John Coolidge of Sherborn and Natick; d. at Newtonville, Apr. 26, 1903; m. at Washington, D. C., Feb. 1, 1874, Sarah Jane Downing of Marshall (formerly Salem), Va., and of Washington, D. C., b. at Front Royal, Apr. 26, 1849, dau. of Joseph Green and Margaret (Frye) of Front Royal, Va. She is now residing at Newton.

John Henry Coolidge, after taking his degree at National University, was admitted in May, 1873, to the District of Columbia bar, and in 1874 to the Massachusetts bar. While at Washington he was political correspondent for the "Washington Post," and during his life continued this special work for the "New York Sun." Besides his legal work he was an author (essayist, biographer and genealogist), his writings requested by magazines and papers. His accounts of history of the Coolidge family appeared frequently between 1875 and 1900. He performed for his home town a great public service in revising, correcting and saving the priceless town records, to which he was able to add from his great store of historical knowledge. In the latter years of his life he was connected with the United States Customs Service, at Boston, as inspector, in a legal capacity.

Sarah (Downing) Coolidge is desc. from an old Virginia family of English cavalier stock, each generation of which were deacons in the Presbyterian Church in Virginia. She was brought up in the typical old colonial southern home of the days before the war. Her father was a prosperous merchant, and the owner of many slaves, chiefly house servants, handed down from his father. These devoted and beloved members of the household remained with them after the war. JOSEPH GREEN DOWNING was prominent in public affairs, both in Virginia and in Memphis, Mo., where he resided for a few years, while on business interests, and where he was Grand Master of Masons. He died suddenly at Memphis, at the age of 39. His widow and children immediately returned to Virginia.

The family spent their winters at Washington, D. C.

JOHN HENRY and SARAH JANE COOLIDGE resided in Washington for a little over a year after their marriage, when they went to Natick to reside, at the urgent desire of Col. Coolidge.

Thomas Coolidge, served, even as did his three brothers, in the War of the Revolution. He was corporal in Capt. Joseph Morse's Company, Col. Samuel Bullard's Regiment, which company marched on the Lexington Alarm, Apr. 19, 1775, with five days' service credited to him at this time. He is again recorded with rank of corporal on the muster and pay roll of Capt. Joshua Fisk's Company, Col. Abner Perry's Regiment, with six days' service to his credit in July, 1780, on an alarm at Rhode Island. He probably served also in other patriotic capacities in his home town. The old colonial house of the family on South Main Street, Natick, was erected during the days of the Revolution, 1776, and it is a family tradition that Thomas Coolidge assisted in its building, he then being twenty-one years of age. This, doubtless, was made ready for his bride, since he m. Sept. 19 of that year, and was probably given to him by his father, Capt. John, who left his own homestead to Thomas' brother John. He also inherited money and land from his father, Capt. John.

Molly Felch was the dau. of Capt. John Felch, who d. at White Plains, Oct. 28, 1776.

Children, born at Natick, except the two youngest:

1. 1. 6. 1. 2. 9. 1. DEACON WILLIAM COOLIDGE of Natick, son of THOMAS and MOLLY (FELCH), b. Dec. 3, 1777; d. Apr. 3, 1859; m. (1st) Mar. 4, 1799 (int.), HANNAH RICE, d. June 5, 1819, aged 40, dau. of Capt. Moses and Mary (Sparhawk); four children; m. (2d) Feb. 15, 1821, SALLY WASHBURN, b. July 23, 1797, d. June, 1885, dau. of Samuel and Hannah (Haven).

Deacon WILLIAM COOLIDGE had an interesting life, in which he was prominent in church and town affairs and entrusted with important offices. In 1819 he united with the First Congregational Church, being one of the original members. He was elected deacon Sept. 21, 1823. An editorial in regard to him at the time of his death states that "he was fond of investigation and argument; enjoyed the society of young men, whose sophistries were often baffled by his fund of general intelligence and his strong, practical common sense." This and the splendid library he had was probably the reason that he attracted to his home young HENRY WILSON, who was struggling to attain an education, and who was eager to browse among Mr. Coolidge's books and to converse with a scholar. It is of interest, too, that Deacon William's son, Timothy, and Henry Wilson, who afterwards became United States Senator and Vice-President, married sisters.

Deacon William's first wife, Hannah Rice, was descended from Deacon Edmond Rice, one of the first proprietors of Sudbury, who was rated sixth in number of acres granted to him. He was selectman of Sudbury in 1644 and 1648. In 1652 he obtained grants of land within the bounds of Framingham. He was appointed frequently by the General Court to locate grants, and he appears to have been conspicuous in transactions of his time.

Deacon William's second wife, Sally Washburn, was descended from John Washburn, who came from Evesham, England, on the ship "Anne" in 1632. She joined the First Congregational Church when eighteen years of age, and served it actively all her life, beloved for her thoughtfulness of others.

Four children, born at Natick:

July 16, 1799, dau. of Deacon Reuben and Hannah (Hildreth) of Westford; eight children; m. (2d) Mar. 19, 1863, Fanny V. (Tombs) Perry of Worcester, dau. of Joseph and Mary (Tombs). Resided at Westford.

In early manhood William Coolidge, Jr., was a custom shoe maker at Natick, having his shop on the village street in the center of the town. These early shoe makers, whose business originated and developed at Natick, became the basis of the big industry of the town. William Coolidge, Jr., taught his two sons, Timothy A. of Marlborough, and Albert Leighton of Boston, the shoe business, giving them an interest in the manufactured goods as their earnings. They became leading shoe manufacturers in the state, the latter being one of the largest dealers in the world. In 1828 William Coolidge, Jr., united with the Congregational Church at Natick.

Ann Leighton was the granddaughter of Francis Leighton, a Revolutionary War soldier, and sister of Lydia Leighton, who m. Col. Alexander Coolidge (see 1. 1. 6. 1. 2. 7. 8.).

Eight children:

1. William Francis, b. Jan. 5, 1825; m. July 2, 1842, Mary Jane Dudley.

Timothy Coolidge united with the First Parish Congregational Church in 1831, and manifested a deep interest in church and parish affairs, holding at different times throughout his life various parish offices. While he never held any town offices, except as overseer of the poor, he always was interested in town affairs. He was first a Whig, then a Free Soiler, later a Republican. He was not only a strong Abolitionist, but in opposing the Fugitive Slave Act he aided actively in the underground method of rescue of runaway slaves. He was a man of strong character, and his drily expressed opinions proved his keenness of perception. It was he who said: "It doesn't matter so much what you think of your ancestors, as it does what your ancestors would think of you."

Lowly Ann Howe was descended from John Howe, who came from Warwickshire, England, settling at Sudbury about 1640, taking the freeman's oath the same year. He was a petitioner for Marlboro in 1656, and a proprietor of that town. A descendant, Samuel Howe, was of the family who originally owned Wayside Inn, and Samuel was an ancestor of Lowly Ann. Her grandfather, Joseph Tombs, was commissioned a lieutenant by Governor Hancock, and her great-great-great-grandfather, Capt. John Homer, fought in the Colonial Wars.

Lowly Ann Howe was the sister of Harriet Howe, who m. Henry Wilson of Natick, who became United States Senator and Vice-President of the United States.

One son:

1. William Leander, b. Apr. 21, 1833; m. Mar. 17, 1858, Sarah Isabella Washburn.

1. 1. 6. 1. 2. 9. 1. 4. 1. DEACON WILLIAM LEANDER COOLIDGE of Natick, son of Timothy and Lowly Ann (Howe), b. Apr. 21, 1833; d. Mar. 4, 1904; m. Mar. 17, 1858, Sarah Isabella Washburn, b. at Natick, Apr. 3, 1836, d. Dec. 23, 1915, dau. of Jedediah and Mitta (Frost).

William Leander Coolidge in his youth taught school, as did his future wife, Sarah Isabella Washburn. In 1861 he was appointed inspector at the Boston Custom House, which position he held until 1875. Then he devoted his energy to farming, but he was always actively interested in town and church affairs. He would never accept public office, wisely realizing the disappointment and disillusionment that attends pleasing a fickle public. In 1875, elected a deacon in the Congregational Church, which church he had served as an active member and as superintendent of the Sunday school, he showed his keen perception and wisdom, when he was instrumental in having a rule adopted which excluded deacons from serving more than one term without an interval of two years. Another evidence of his wisdom was his placing of his sons upon their mettle in giving them a college education, but no further assistance, having seen the failure of rich men's sons to succeed.

His five sons had a college education, and went through their careers with high credit in scholarship and in other attainments, athletic and of public welfare. Three of these young men were tragically cut off in their prime.

In memory of his two sons, Herman Timothy and Leander, Deacon Coolidge gave to the town of Natick two parcels of land, the first, three and one-half acres to be used as a playground, to be known as Coolidge Playfield; the second, twenty acres, comprising the Coolidge woods, a most picturesque spot, to be used as a town park, to be known as Coolidge Park. These, with Mr. Coolidge's gift, a few years before his death, of several acres on the shore of Dug Pond, to extend the town park, make the largest gift of land the town has ever received. He bequeathed to the deacons of the First Congregational Church the Mrs. H. M. Wilson Charity Fund, — he having been the administrator of the estate of Vice-President Wilson, — the income to be used annually for the benefit of poor women and children of the town. To the deacons, also, he bequeathed a lot of land, formerly owned by his son Leander, and this son's bank book for funds in the Natick Savings Bank, the proceeds of sale of this land and the money to be used for religious work at West Natick. There was also the gift to the town of a lot of land on South Main Street which was to be used as a public square, ornamented with shrubs, trees, etc.

When the Morse Hospital was established, Deacon Coolidge furnished a room therein in memory of his mother, Lowly Ann (Howe).

Sarah Washburn Coolidge, too, proved her thoughtfulness for others in her service at all times in the church and for her town. She has the distinction of having organized the first District Nursing Association ever founded in this state, the association at Natick. Mrs. Coolidge was descended from Lieut. John Bacon, who d. at the Battle of Lexington.

Nine children, born at Natick:

1. William Henry, b. Feb. 23, 1859; m. Oct. 3, 1887, May Humphreys.
2. Louis Arthur, b. Oct. 8, 1861; m. Jan. 2, 1890, Helen Irene Pickerill.
3. Herman Timothy (A.B. cum laude, Harvard, 1887), b. Dec. 5, 1864; d. unm., Sept. 30, 1889. Herman Timothy Coolidge graduated from Natick High School as valedictorian of his class in 1881; and from Newton High School as salutatorian in 1883. In college he gained high credit in historic and economic courses, graduating from Harvard with a cum laude A.B. degree. Greatly interested in athletic sports, he was a member of his class baseball nine for four years, and of the varsity nine, as substitute for one year. Immediately after graduation, in 1887, he became a member of the staff of the "Springfield Republican." In December, 1887, he went south, and entered upon journalism with the "Knoxville (Tenn.) Daily Tribune." Here he was a working member of the Young Men's Christian Association, and helped to carry on a mission school in the outskirts of the city. In November, 1888, he went to El Paso, Texas, in the hope of regaining his health, and in the spring of 1889 he went to Denver, Col. While in Texas he organized a Christian Endeavor Society and was its first president. At Denver he began to fit himself for the ministry, but in July of 1889 he returned home to Natick, when it was evident that his health was rapidly failing.
4. Frederick Washburn, b. Mar. 1, 1867; d. Oct. 27, 1869.
5. Leander (A.B. magna cum laude, Harvard, 1894), b. July 21, 1869; d. unm. at Liberty, N. Y., Jan. 29, 1899. He was a student at Union Theological Seminary, New York City, in 1894–95; and of Yale Divinity School, 1895–96, where he was obliged to give up his theological course on account of failing health, after entering on his second year there. Leander Coolidge as a boy took an active part in church and Sabbath school as a member of the Congregational Church, and always his desire was to become a minister. After graduation from Natick High School and Newton High School, he entered Harvard and carried forward the same high scholarship. For one year he attended Union Theological Seminary in New York, and in the fall of 1895 entered Yale Divinity School, which he attended until the following June, when he was licensed to preach. He spent his vacation of three months in 1896 at Hemingford, Neb., having charge of the Congregational Church in that town. In the fall he returned to Divinity School at New Haven, where he remained until his health failed, near the first of December, and he returned home. Before leaving for Florida in search of health, in Jan., 1897, he preached once at Natick, and later, in Florida, he preached several sermons. In a vain search for health he finally was persuaded to go to Loomis Sanitarium, at Liberty, N. Y., and here he died, Jan. 29, 1899, his promising career cut off even as were those of his two brothers.

7. Mary Isabella, b. Jan. 24, 1874; d. Apr. 21, 1875.
8. Harry Washburn, b. Aug. 1, 1876; d. May 21, 1882.
9. Edward Erwin (A.B., Harvard, 1901; LL.B., ib., 1903), b. Apr. 11, 1879; d. at Altadena, Cal., June 4, 1906. Edward Erwin Coolidge, like his brothers, attended Newton High School. After one year here he entered Harvard College in 1897, and finished a three years' course and received his degree from the Law School in 1903. Throughout his school career he showed particular attainment in mathematics. In Natick High School, Edward Coolidge captained the nine in 1896; at Newton he was a member of the nine; and at Natick he was also quarterback of the football eleven for two years. On entering Harvard he made the baseball team; the second year played second on the nine; his junior year made the varsity, and continued at short-stop for four years, through his law school course. He was also a clever hockey player, and a member of this varsity team a few seasons. While at college he was an officer of the Y. M. C. A., one of the editors of "The Crimson," a member of his class debating society, and president of the sophomore debating club. The same year of his graduation from Harvard Law School he was admitted to the bar and took up the practice of law in the office of his brother, William H. Coolidge, and later joined the legal staff of the Boston Elevated Railway Company. Ill health compelled him to retire, and he went to Colorado Springs, and then to Phoenix, Ariz., and to Pasadena, Cal. On June 4, 1906, he fell victim to the same treacherous disease (tuberculosis) that had cut short the careers of his two brothers. His father had died in 1904. His mother and his two remaining brothers, William Henry Coolidge and Louis Arthur Coolidge, established in his memory a most appropriate benefaction, in that the fund used therefor was the life insurance fund of Edward Coolidge, so that the gift really became his, and one that he would have been glad to give to Harvard College had he known of it. A Scholarship Loan Fund, known as the Edward Erwin Coolidge Fund, by which four boys could benefit in Harvard College, preferably for Natick boys, and also, preferably, for descendants of John Coolidge of Watertown, 1630, has given annually since 1906 substantial assistance to young men seeking a college education. After the gift of his father of land for a park to the town of Natick, Edward Erwin Coolidge was chosen by the town to be one of the board of park commissioners to carry forward this enterprise.

J., Oct. 3, 1887, May Humphreys, b. May 16, 1869, dau. of George D. and Sarah Frances (Young) of St. Louis, Mo.

During his school career William Coolidge attained prominence as a baseball player, until at Harvard College he became famous as their baseball captain and second baseman, winning many a victory for his college that will always be remembered.

After studying law for two years at Harvard Law School, William Henry Coolidge entered the law office of Hyde, Dickinson & Howe of Boston, and in January, 1885, was admitted to the Suffolk bar, and in 1890 was admitted to the bar of the United States Supreme Court.

In 1885 he became assistant counsel of the Boston & Lowell Railroad Corporation, and after its lease to the Boston & Maine Railroad, in 1887, continued as counsel of the Boston & Maine Railroad until 1913.

He became a member of the law firm of Strout & Coolidge in 1889, and upon Mr. Strout's death formed the firm of Coolidge & Hight (C. A. Hight, Harvard, 1889). He has been counsel for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad; for the Canadian Pacific Railroad and Grand Trunk Railroad; also a director and counsel of the United Shoe Machinery Company, of the United States Smelting, Refining and Mining Company, of Island Creek Coal Company, of American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Company, of Technicolor, Inc., of Exolon Company, Spraco, Inc., of Yuba Consolidated Goldfields, and of other corporations.

In June, 1928, he was elected president of the Coolidge Family Association, which office he still holds. Carrying forward the public service of their father, he and his brother, Louis Arthur Coolidge, gave to the town of Natick the two Coolidge homesteads. The older colonial house is being guarded by the town as an excellent specimen of colonial days, and here the Natick Chapter D. A. R. meets. The home of Deacon William Leander Coolidge is now the Maria Hayes Home for Aged People. The new Junior High School is built on land given by these two Natick "boys," also.

MAY (HUMPHREYS) COOLIDGE is vice-president of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, director of Travelers' Aid and Children's Friend Society, and trustee of Beverly Hospital. She organized the District Nursing Association of Newton, and was a trustee of the Newton Hospital.

After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge resided at Winchester until 1891; at Newton Centre from 1891 to 1906; and at Manchester, on their estate "Blynman Farm," since that time.

Four children:

1. Solon Humphreys, b. at Winchester, Nov. 30, 1888; d. there, Apr. 9, 1890.
2. Isabelle, b. at Winchester, May 23, 1890; m. at Manchester, Sept. 9, 1911, SAMUEL SPRAGUE STEVENS (M. I. T., 1911), b. at Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 28, 1889, son of Horace H. and Edith K. (Sawyer). Isabelle Coolidge attended Briarcliffe on the Hudson, and grad. from the Winsor School of Brookline. During the World War she was engaged in Red Cross and surgical dressing work at Manchester, and during the World War Samuel Stevens was in the Secret Service. He is treasurer of the Hardy Coal Company.

   Two children:

   1. Anne Coolidge, b. at Brookline, Dec. 29, 1913.

Her legal residence is Milton.

Hon. Louis Arthur Coolidge became known in the field of politics, as well as in his capacity of treasurer of the corporation, United Shoe Machinery Company. While residing at Washington, D. C., he was for several years a newspaper correspondent and writer. He was on the staff of the "Springfield Republican," 1883–88; became private secretary to Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, 1888–91; was Washington correspondent, 1891–1904; director of the Literary Bureau of the Republican National Committee, 1904; appointed by President Roosevelt, Feb., 1908, assistant secretary of the treasury, which office he held until April, 1909; treasurer and director of United Shoe Machinery Company from Dec., 1909, until his death; and director of many other corporations, such as American Zinc, Lead, and Smelting Company, and American Trust Company.

He was the author of two notable books: "The Life of Orville H. Platt," and "The Life of Ulysses S. Grant." He had just completed a biographical sketch of his lifelong friend, Mr. Lodge, for the New England Historic Society at the time of his death. One of his finest bits of writing was his tribute to Abraham Lincoln, which he gave at the Lincoln Cabin, Milton, Feb. 12, 1925.

He was chairman of the Welfare Department of the National Civic Federation; chairman of the National Committee on Welfare Work of the Council for National Defense; member of the Federal Shipbuilding Wage Adjustment Board; director, League for Preservation of American Independence (president of Massachusetts branch, 1919–20); director, Constitutional Liberty League of Massachusetts; president of Coolidge Family Association, 1920–23; president of Sentinels of the Republic; and he was director of many other clubs and organizations.

Helen (Pickerill) Coolidge was a director of Community Service of Boston, Inc., for several years, and during the World War she worked at Camp Devens in the hospital, and acted as hostess in three or four canteens and service clubs in Boston, besides entertaining service men each week-end in her own home. After the Armistice she continued such work for two or three years at the Naval Hospital in Chelsea. Her father, Francis Byers Pickerill, b. in Brown County, Ohio, in 1849, at the age of 12, was with his father in the Civil War as drummer, being in three battles.

Three children:

Clarissa Leland was descended on her father's side from Henry Leland, who came to America in 1652, and who married MARGARET BADCOCK, sister of Robert of Dorchester (now Milton). This is the same family from whom Hannah Morse who married Major Issac Coolidge was descended, her mother, Hannah Badcock, being the daughter of the above Robert. Margaret Badcock was the granddaughter of James, who went with the Pilgrims to Holland, and came to Plymouth Colony in 1623. To return to the history of the Leland family, Henry Leland was received into the church of Dedham in 1653 (all of these early New England churches being Congregational); he was one of the early settlers of Sherborn, signing both petitions for its incorporation. His son, Deacon Hopestill Leland was rated to extinguish the Indian title in 1686; drew 166 acres in Douglas subsequently, and was selectman of Sherborn for ten years.

Sept. 29, 1733, son of Joshua and Ruth (Morse). Ruth (Morse) Leland was granddaughter of Capt. Joseph Morse, one of Sherborn's most illustrious citizens of an illustrious era. (For his history, see 1. 1. 6. 1. Major ISAAC COOLIDGE.)

The Leland family of Sherborn has a most interesting history, with background of family heritages. Lieut. Hopestill inherited part of his father's share of his grandfather's farm, Deacon Hopestill Leland, the Deacon having been selectman for ten years. He was rated for the Indian title, 1686; drew land in Sherborn, 1682, and subsequently 166 acres at Douglas. The Deacon's father, Henry Leland, purchased this homestead from Thomas Holbrook. Henry Leland m. Margaret Badcock, sister of Robert of Dorchester (now Milton), and granddaughter of James B., who was of Essex County, Eng., and removed with the Pilgrims to Holland, and came in ship "Anne" to Plymouth in 1623. Henry's father was Hopestill Layland (Leland), common ancestor in this country, from Yorkshire, Eng., who settled at Weymouth as early as 1624.

When the Rev. Mr. Newman and the majority of the planters of Weymouth removed to Rehoboth in 1644, he seems to have removed with the family of John Holbrook to Dorchester (now Milton). In 1654 Henry Leland went to Sherborn, where he signed both petitions for Sherborn's township and church; was chosen on committee to provide a minister; associated with selectmen in granting town lots, and tradition has it "was a man of high character for piety, and for kindness to the Indians."

July 13, 1664, d. Apr. 21, 1727, son of William and Sarah (Biscoe). For pedigree of BOND and BISCOE, see page 41.)

Col. JONAS BOND held a justice's commission for more than twenty-four years, and was sometimes called "the marrying squire" on account of the frequency of his officiating at weddings. He represented the town many times in the General Court, and was frequently intrusted with its most important municipal business. He belonged to the military force sent into Canada in 1690 under Sir William Phipps, and he was a lieutenant-colonel of a regiment of militia. His marriage to GRACE COOLIDGE was performed by his father, WILLIAM BOND.

Four children:

1. Sarah, b. May 30, 1690; d. June 10, 1777; m. Dec. 11, 1718, Deacon WILLIAM BROWN (his 2d wife). He was much respected and often intrusted with municipal and church affairs of Watertown and Waltham. He was one of the first board of selectmen of Waltham (1738), and he called the first town meeting after its incorporation. His five children had many distinguished descendants. A dau. Grace, b. 1719, m. 1742, GEORGE LAWRENCE; a dau. Sarah, b. 1727/8, m. 1749, Col. BENJAMIN HAMMOND of Newton; a dau. Thankful, b. Apr. 28, 1730, m. 1751, Capt. ABIJAH PEIRCE of Waltham; and their dau. Susanna, b. May 9, 1752, m. Hon. SAMUEL HOAR of Lincoln. A son, Josiah, b. 1724, many times selectman of Waltham, m. Apr. 20, 1748, HANNAH FLAGG, and their son WILLIAM became a prosperous merchant in Boston, a deacon of the Hollis Street Church, and a representative and senator in the State Legislature. This William Brown's children and descendants were merchants and college graduates, and both sons and daughters married into well-known Boston families.
2. Jonas, b. Dec. 10, 1691; d. Sept., 1768; m. Dec. 4, 1718, HANNAH BRIGHT, b. Aug. 7, 1694, d. 1786, dau. of Nathaniel and Mary (Coolidge). JONAS BOND was appointed justice of the peace by Governor Shirley, and was representative to the General Court from 1738–50, inclusive, except for one year. He was leader of the east precinct of Watertown. Nine children, of whom seven had descendants. Mention is made of only two of these children's descendants, the second and seventh.
    2. Grace, b. Mar. 1, 1721/2; d. at Lincoln, Aug. 11, 1801; m. May 3, 1742, JOSEPH MASON, Jr. Among the numerous descendants of their twelve children, one of whom was WILLIAM, b. Feb. 2, 1767, who m. SUSANNAH COBURN, Mar. 14, 1790, and went to Ohio with Rufus Putnam, there are two members of the Coolidge Association, — Mary Eliza Mason, now residing at Marietta, Ohio, b. May 4, 1854, and her brother, William Mason, b. Jan. 17, 1857, d. July 6, 1907, who are descended, through three generations of the name William Mason, b. in Washington County, Ohio, from Grace Bond, who m. Joseph Mason.

7. William, b. Feb. 17, 1733 4, m. 1755, Lucy Brown; achieved high honor for his bravery in the Revolutionary War. He was Lieutenant-Colonel under Col. Thomas Gardner, who was mortally wounded at Bunker Hill, after which he had command of the regiment arranged as the 25th in the Continental Army, and belonged to Gen. Green's Brigade stationed at Prospect Hill. In the following March his regiment and the 5th — Col. Stark's — were ordered to New York, and into Canada, on that disastrous expedition. He d. while encamped opposite Ticonderoga, and was given highest military honors at his funeral. His son Henry, then a lad of 14, accompanied him on this Canadian expedition. Another son, Samuel, b. 1756, engaged in the marine service during the Revolution; a son William, b. 1765, became a colonel in the Mass. militia; a son Charles, b. 1769, was captain of militia and selectman of Watertown; and a son Jonathan, b. 1772, who removed to Augusta, Me., was town clerk, and representative in the Legislature. It is especially interesting that this famous descendant of John and Mary Coolidge (Lieut.-Col. William), as well as his sons, should be descended through the female line in two branches, his grandmother Grace Coolidge being the dau. of the eldest branch, Ensign John, and his grandmother Mary Coolidge being the dau. of Simon.

3. Henry, b. about 1694; d. unm., and by his will, dated Jan. 8, 1744 5, bequeathed his real estate to his nephew, the above Lieut.-Col. William Bond.

4. Josiah, b. Jan. 20, 1695 6; m. Jan. 31, 1719 20, Elizabeth Fuller, b. July 1, 1701, dau. of Capt. Joseph and Lydia (Jackson) of Newton. The history of the Fuller and Jackson families of Newton is most interesting, these two early settlers being the largest landowners of Cambridge village, as it was then called. John Fuller settled there about 1644, and in Dec., 1658, purchased of Joseph Cooke, 750 acres for £160 (a small fortune in those days), bounded north and west by the Charles River, in its winding part between Waltham, West Newton, Auburndale to Newton Lower Falls. By subsequent purchase he increased this to 1,000 acres, through which tract ran Cheese-cake Brook, at West Newton, long called Fuller's Corner. His house stood about where the new Congregational Church (Second Church) now stands. Fuller Street, near Brae Burn, also was on his land. He left his property to be divided among five sons, two of whom were Capt. Joseph, who m. LYDIA JACKSON, dau. of Edward, Sr.; and John, who m. ABIGAIL BOYLSTON, whose granddaughter Eunice m. SAMUEL EAMES (see 1. 1. 6. 1. 2. 7). By this it is shown that two descendants of this eldest son John Coolidge married into the Fuller family. Capt. Joseph Fuller was given by his father-in-law, Edward Jackson, 23 acres of land, from the westerly part of Mayhew farm, which he bought of Governor Bradstreet, upon which the captain erected his mansion house, upon the same spot where his grandson, Judge Fuller, lived. He was selectman five years. Josiah Bond and his family resided some time at Newton and Weston, then settled permanently at Sutton. They had eight children, the youngest, Henry, b. at Sutton, Feb. 4, 1741, being well known. He was an early settler at Royalston, a selectman, and a member of the Provincial Congress, 1775. About 1785 he removed to Grafton, Vt., where he was selectman, town clerk and justice. He d. at Le Roy, Genesee County, N. Y., 1828, aged 87.

1. 1. 8. LIEUT. RICHARD COOLIDGE of Watertown, son of Ensign JOHN and HANNAH (LIVERMORE), b. Apr. 13, 1666; d. Oct. 23 or 25, 1732; m. (1st) at Watertown, June 21, 1693, MARY BOND, b. 1669, d. May 21, 1700, dau. of William and Sarah (Biscoe), the bride's father, a magistrate, officiating; three children; m. (2d) about 1701, SUSANNA ——, b. 1669, d. Oct. 20, 1736; seven children.

Lieut. Richard was a selectman of Watertown in 1711, 1715, 1718–20, 1722–24 and 1726–28, and a representative to the General Court in 1722. Agreement as to the settlement of his estate, which was large enough to benefit many, was made Mar. 22, 1733/4.

Deacon Nathan Fiske was representative from Watertown in 1727, 1728, 1729 and 1732, and was much respected and trusted by his fellow townsmen. Through their great-grandson, Thaddeus (son of JONATHAN 1. 1. 13. 2. 3. 2.), this branch of the eldest son of JOHN COOLIDGE becomes connected with the Clarks and with Rev. John Hancock of Lexington fame, a reflected glory well worth being proud of.

[1] The author regrets that she has been unable in the short time allotted for preparing this volume to trace more fully the descendants of the daughters of the branches. Enough has been given, however, for those especially interested in any one line to be able to follow the descent indicated.

Eight children:

1. Sarah, bp. Dec. 4, 1698; d. 1721.

CHAPTER IV

DESCENDANTS OF THE SECOND SON, SIMON COOLIDGE

SIMON[2] COOLIDGE of Watertown, the second son and third child of JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE, the Colonists, of 1630, was born at Watertown probably in 1632, since he deposed in 1659, when a court witness, that he was about 27 years of age, and again in 1662 that he was 30 years of age.

SIMON COOLIDGE inherited a share of his father's lands and possessions, and remained upon his farm in Watertown, and his children after him, in some instances to the present generations. His brother Stephen was given the "house and lott" of JOHN and MARY, but SIMON had his acres near the Cambridge line, and there is record of purchases by him of other land in Watertown. For example, on the 5th of the 9th month, 1666, the selectmen who had been "appointed a committee to make sale of the so-called common land" at the lower end of the town, sold to SIMON COOLIDGE, and his heirs, six acres of "swamp" that was bounded on the east by land of John Thomson; on the north by land of John Tucker and the highway; on the west by the highway; and on the south by land of William Eaton and the highway.

That he was interested in town affairs, and played his part in them, is shown by records wherein he was elected or chosen for various services. At a general town meeting on Nov. 1, 1669, he was chosen surveyor of highways; and at a similar meeting, Nov. 7, 1670, he was chosen constable for this year. The account which he and John Warren rendered as constables the next year, Sept. 2, 1671, is most interesting, listing as it does money advanced for the country rate, for deputy charges, for purchasing supplies, such as wood, and services, such as glazing, for hoggeries, and for birds, besides funds advanced for the poor, amounting to over £110.

Of his descendants, as has been said, one branch has remained through the years in the home town; one branch went to Brookline, and from their farm and also from the grocery store owned by members of the family located in a central spot there, came the name of COOLIDGE CORNER, which is so well known today; another branch went to Maine, and their descendants have gone to the Pacific coast, and points between, residing now in California and Seattle, Wash., where one distinguished descendant, Leigh Hill Coolidge, has become famous as a naval architect; another branch went to Sudbury, thence to Lancaster, Bolton and to Vermont, and today this branch has given a President of the United States.

Administration of the estate of SIMON COOLIDGE was granted Jan. 15, 1693/4, to Joseph Coolidge and Nathaniel Bright, with William Shattuck and John Warren as sureties. Inventory of the estate amounted to £66, 12 s. 3d., and it was agreed by the heirs on Oct. 11, 1694, that Obadiah Coolidge, the son, should have the housing and lands, and that the widow, Priscilla, should have the west end of the dwelling so long as she remained Simon Coolidge's widow.

HANNAH BARRON, the first wife of SIMON COOLIDGE, was the daughter of Ellis Barron, who was admitted freeman, June 2, 1641, and who served Watertown as constable in 1658, and as selectman in 1668 and 1673. Inventory of his estate showed £139.

1. 3. SIMON COOLIDGE of Watertown, son of JOHN and MARY, the Colonists, of 1630, b. probably at Watertown in 1632 (since he deposed in 1659, when a court witness, that he was about 27 years of age); d. at Watertown, Dec. 27, 1693; m. (1st) Nov. 17, 1658, HANNAH BARRON, b. 1635, d. July 24, 1680, dau. of Ellis and Grace —— of Watertown; seven children; m. (2d) Jan. 19, 1681/2, PRISCILLA ROGERS, d. in her 70th year, June 9, 1717, dau. of John and Priscilla (Dawes) of Watertown and Billerica; no children.

Seven children, born at Watertown:

1. Mary, b. Dec. 11, 1660; m. July 21, 1681, NATHANIEL BRIGHT.
2. Obadiah, b. July 20, 1663; m. Feb. 28, 1686/7, ELIZABETH ROUSE.
3. Joseph, b. May 31, 1666; m. about 1695, REBECCA FROST.
4. Hannah, b. Dec. 7, 1671; m. (1st) Nov. 3, 1693, DANIEL SMITH; m. (2d) May 22, 1729, Deacon NATHAN FISKE.
5. Stephen, b. June 1, 1674; d. at Cambridge, 1704; administrator of his father's estate; probably the one who m. at Cambridge, Apr. 30, 1702, SARAH PARKER, b. May 1, 1683, dau. of Capt. Josiah and Elizabeth (Saxton) of Groton, Woburn and Cambridge. She owned the church covenant of Cambridge, Apr. 23, 1704. Their dau. Sarah, bp. at Cambridge, May 14, 1704, d. Feb. 3, 1704 5, was their only child. After the death of Stephen Coolidge, Sarah m. at Cambridge, Aug. 8, 1706, NICHOLAS FESSENDEN, Jr. (A.B., Harvard, 1701; A.M., ib., 1704), an eminent schoolmaster of Cambridge for eighteen years, who d. in 1719.
6. Lydia, b. Feb. 3, 1676/7; d. Apr. 24, 1677.
7. Sarah, b. about 1679; m. July 10, 1701, SAMUEL HASTINGS.

1. 3. 1. MARY COOLIDGE[1] of Watertown, dau. of Simon and Hannah (Barron), b. Dec. 11, 1660; d. Dec. 1, 1717; m. July 21, 1681, Nathaniel Bright, a tanner and farmer, b. May 5, 1647, d. May 11, 1726, son of Deacon Henry and Anne (Goldstone). Nathaniel Bright's sister Mary m. Nathaniel Coolidge, Mary Coolidge's uncle, an interchange of Marys and Nathaniels that could cause much confusion in family conversations, and one that made Mary Coolidge's sister-in-law become her aunt-in-law (see 1. 5.).

Nathaniel Bright was selectman of Watertown, 1701, 1717, and 1723. His father, Henry Bright, long held the office of deacon. He was, as a young man, a sergeant. His name is among the first settlers at Boston, and as a member of the first church at Boston (Charlestown), proving that he must have come with Governor Winthrop's party in 1630, but as his name does not continue among these records he probably went during the year to Watertown, although not with the first settlers there. The pedigree of the Brights, according to Bond's "History of Watertown," shows the family one of high respectability in Suffolk, among the gentry of that county, as is evidenced by their many marriage alliances with persons of honorable houses. The line traces unbroken to Walter Bright of Bury St. Edmunds, and with indication of lineage to the families of Kent at a much earlier date. An early record of Henry Bright at Watertown is of May 13, 1640, when the General Court appointed him one of a committee to appraise horses, cows and other cattle, for the purpose of making the rate of £1,200 for the colony. On August 27 of the same year he was appointed by the Court as a surveyor of arms in Watertown, "for this year and till a new one be chosen." The records show no other appointment for the next ten years. He was admitted freeman, May 6, 1635. During the twenty-seven years, 1640 67, he was many times a selectman. He was a juror in the Court of Assistants, July 22, 1684, when he was 82 years of age. An extract from the diary of Judge Sewall, dated Oct. 6, 1686, tells the tragic fact that Henry Bright was injured while carrying home chairs "in his car," from the home of Mr. Bailey, who was ordained that day; and "none seeing, so that he dies Oct. 9, Saturday." His descendants have continued to reside at Watertown, those in the male line not being very numerous, and those in the female line being quite numerous.

[1] Where descendants of Mary (Coolidge) Bright are known of the present day these branches have been followed out here. Other lines have been indicated in the early generations as a basis for readers who would like to trace them, but are not given in entirety. Information on these may be found in Bond's "History of Watertown."

NATHANIEL BRIGHT'S will, dated Sept. 22, 1725, mentions four sons and four daughters, the only child not mentioned being Benjamin, which would indicate that this son died before his father.

Nine children, born at Watertown:

1. Mary, b. Oct. 7, 1682; m. Dec. 14, 1704, Deacon THOMAS LIVERMORE.
2. Cornet Henry, b. Aug. 16, 1684; d. Oct. 24, 1756; m. MARGARET JACKSON, b. about 1685, d. Apr. 16, 1758, dau. of Abraham and Elizabeth (Biscoe). Henry Bright had the rank of "cornet" as cavalry officer. Of eight children, three married and had descendants.
3. Nathaniel, b. Dec. 28, 1686; d. Dec. 28, 1737; m. about 1714, ANN BOWMAN, bp. Sept. 6, 1698, dau. of Capt. Nathaniel and Anne (Barnard); six children and many descendants.
4. John, b. Apr. 5, 1689; d. Apr. 22, 1754 or 1755; m. Dec. 17, 1726, REBECCA TRAINE, b. Dec. 7, 1701, d. June 20, 1736, dau. of Thomas and Rebecca (Stearns). John Bright was constable at Watertown, 1735, and selectman, 1746; no children.
5. Joseph, b. July 11, 1692; d. 1757; m. ELIZABETH ——. Three children:
   1. Josiah, b. Oct. 19, 1731; m. July 21, 1757, RACHEL LIVERMORE, dau. of Oliver and Ruth (Bowman), b. Aug. 12, 1733; eleven children, with many descendants.
   2. Elizabeth, b. Aug. 11, 1734; d. Sept. 18, 1812; m. Oct. 15, 1760, Capt. EBENEZER MASON, a captain in the Revolutionary War, who also held many civil offices of responsibility; eight children, with many descendants.
   3. Abigail, b. Feb. 25, 1738; m. WILLIAM SODEN of Cambridge.
6. Hannah, b. Aug. 7, 1694; d. 1786; m. Feb. 4, 1718/19, JONAS BOND, Esq., b. Dec. 10, 1691, d. Sept., 1768, son of Col. JONAS and GRACE (COOLIDGE). (This Grace Coolidge was the dau. of Ensign John and Hannah Livermore; see 1. 1. 7.) Jonas Bond was appointed justice of the peace by Governor Shirley, and he was representative from Watertown to the General Court every year but one from 1738 to 1750, inclusive. Of nine children, seven had many descendants. A son, William, b. Feb. 17, 1733/4, had a distinguished record in the Revolutionary War, being a lieutenant-colonel. Several of William's sons acquired fame and distinction (see 1. 1. 7. 2.).

7. Abigail, m. July 20, 1732, Capt. JOHN BROWN of Waltham, innholder, selectman, representative, and died, leaving one child, Abigail, b. Apr. 27, 1733, who m. May 1, 1755, ISRAEL WHITTEMORE of Weston, and they had seven children, two sons and five daughters.
8. Benjamin, b. July 19, 1698; probably died before his father, as he is not mentioned in his will.
9. Mercy, m. Feb. 10, 1725/6, JOHN COOLIDGE, son of Lieut. Richard and Mary (Bond), b. Oct. 22, 1697 (see 1. 1. 8. 2.), by which marriage she is the second daughter of this family to become allied with the branch of the eldest son of JOHN and MARY, — Ensign JOHN.

1. 3. 1. 1. MARY BRIGHT of Watertown and Waltham, dau. of MARY (COOLIDGE) and NATHANIEL BRIGHT, b. at Watertown, Oct. 7, 1682; d. at Waltham, Sept. 29, 1765; m. Dec. 14, 1704, Deacon THOMAS LIVERMORE of Waltham, b. Jan. 5, 1675 or 1676, d. May 8, 1761, son of Samuel and Anna (Bridge). His brother Daniel m. Mary Coolidge, dau. of John and Mary (Wellington) (Maddock). THOMAS LIVERMORE held the office of deacon from Oct. 3, 1718, until his death in 1761. For a long time he had an important share in the municipal business of the west precinct, and of the town. He resided for a few years at Cambridge.

Of eight children, two sons and two daughters had descendants, as follows:

3. Tabitha, b. at Cambridge, Oct. 11, 1711; m. Jan. 27, 1737/8, Deacon JOHN GOVE of Weston, later of Lincoln, b. Nov. 2, 1707, son of Jonathan and Lydia (Cooper); six children, of whom a son Jonathan, b. Aug. 22, 1746, grad. Harvard, 1768; became a prominent physician, settling first at Groton, then at Goffstown, N. H., where he also was representative and state senator; his descendants were prominent as lawyers, and politically. Jonathan's son John grad. Dartmouth, 1793, studied law. Jonathan's son Charles Frederick grad. Dartmouth, 1817 (LL.B., Harvard, 1820); became justice of the peace, 1823; was representative, 1830-34; state senator, 1825; and president of the senate; appointed Attorney-General, Sept., 1835, and held this office until 1843, when he was appointed circuit justice, C. Before her marriage Louise Humphreys Maltby was supervisor of the Fine Arts Department in the public schools of Indianapolis, Ind., 1914-15, after graduating from Teachers College of Columbia University, New York.

1. 3. 2. 5. OBADIAH COOLIDGE of Watertown, cordwainer, son of OBADIAH and ELIZABETH (ROUSE), b. Aug. 27, 1695; d. after 1739; m. July 24, 1717, RACHEL GODDARD, b. Apr. 18, 1699, dau. of Josiah and Rachel (Davis) of Watertown.

OBADIAH COOLIDGE, according to Massachusetts Archives, vol. 91, page 213, is listed as in His Majesty's service, under the command of Capt. Samuel Wright, from June 10 to Sept. 1, 1725. In 1728 he, with his family, was a resident of Framingham, of Marlborough in 1732, and of Westborough in 1740.

The history of this family is, of course, shrouded now in vagueness, but reading certain bald records one is aroused to pity and wonders what unfortunate circumstances of conditions, or of character, or of ability, made life so hard for OBADIAH COOLIDGE and for his family. He seems to have been one of those unfortunate souls that did not have the gift of financial success, and yet he must have had many fine attributes.

Children:

1. Josiah, b. at Watertown, July 17, 1718; m. at Brookline, Apr. 26, 1742, MARY JONES.
2. Hannah, b. at Watertown, June 2, 1720.
3. Lydia, bp. at Watertown, Jan. 9, 1725/6; m. at Westborough, Feb. 5, 1745, JOSEPH BARTLETT of Rutland.
4. Obadiah, b. between 1726 and 1731; m. at Roxbury, July 30, 1750, SARAH DAVIS.
5. Rachel, b. about June 16, 1731 ("Rice Genealogy," page 141, states she was b. Nov. 6, 1737, but gravestone at Northborough gives death date Jan. 5, 1766, and age as 34 years, 6 months, 20 days); m. SETH RICE of Northborough.
6. Isaiah,[1] b. about 1733 (or perhaps between 1726-30); m. Mar. 27, 1759, HANNAH HARRINGTON.

1. 3. 2. 5. 1. JOSIAH COOLIDGE[2] of Watertown and Lancaster, son of OBADIAH and RACHEL (GODDARD), b. at Watertown, July 17, 1718; d. at Lancaster, Dec. 25, 1780; m. at Brookline, Apr. 26, 1742, MARY JONES. In 1747 he, and his family, were living at Bolton. Old records show that they had many hard experiences, due to financial lack — the only Coolidge family so unfortunately recorded.

[1] It is not definitely established that Isaiah was a son of Obadiah and Rache (Goddard) Coolidge, but his movements from Watertown, to Roxbury, to Bolton, at the same time that others of this family were living at these towns, and the fact that a son was named Obediah, would indicate that this is his line of descent. A descendant states that it is the belief of her family that ISAIAH was the son of OBADIAH and RACHEL (GODDARD).

[2] There is a question as to which JOSIAH, Jonas, b. Apr. 18, 1773, m. Aug. 8, 1797, LUCY TEMPLE, is the son of. The compiler is inclined to believe he is the son of Josiah, Jr., and that he went to Plymouth, Vt., because his uncle Obadiah had settled there a little before 1790.

JOSIAH, or his son JOSIAH, or perhaps both, served in the Revolutionary War. A JOSIAH COOLIDGE of Lancaster was a Minuteman; served from Apr. 27, 1775, to Aug. 1, 1775; and re-enlisted, return dated Oct. 6, 1775, in Capt. Benjamin Hastings' Company, Col. Asa Whitcomb's Regiment; and a JOSIAH COOLIDGE of Lancaster was in Col. John Whitcomb's Regiment, Capt. Benjamin Hastings' Company, on duty at Lechmere Point, Cambridge, protecting this strategic point from British approach on the day preceding, and on the day of, the Battle of Bunker Hill.

Children born probably at Bolton, except the first:

1. Mary, bp. at Brookline, June 5, 1743; m. at Bolton, Mar. 25, 1762, AMOS FULLER.
   Five children:
   1. Hannah, b. Oct. 7, 1762.
   2. Molly, b. Sept. 30, 1764.
   3. Lucy, b. Nov. 9, 1766.
   4. Rachel, b. Sept. 9, 1769.
   5. Silas, b. Sept. 5, 1774.
2. Josiah,[1] m. at Bolton, May 22, 1772, MOLLY HOUGHTON. He may have served in the Revolutionary War. (See statement as to his father.)
3. John, b. about 1756; m. at Lancaster, Sept. 8, 1779, HANNAH PRIEST.
4. Obadiah, b. about 1760; m. in 1789, SARAH KNOWLTON. Living at Saltash (Plymouth, Vt.), in 1790, with his family.
5. Isaac (?),[2] b. about 1761: m. and probably went to New York with his brother Obediah; then to Pennsylvania.
6. Jonas (?).[1]

1. 3. 2. 5. 1. 2. 1. or 1. 3. 2. 5. 1. 6. JONAS COOLIDGE[1] of Bolton, Mass., and Plymouth, Vt., son of JOSIAH and MARY (JONES), or (what is more probable) of JOSIAH, Jr. and MOLLY (HOUGHTON), b. at Bolton, Apr. 13, 1773; d. at Plymouth, Jan. 22, 1848; m. at Lancaster, Aug. 8, 1797, LUCY TEMPLE, b. at Boylston, Sept. 18, 1776, d. at Peru, Vt., Aug. 5, 1858, at the home of her son, Harley, dau. of Timothy and Deborah (Ball). They removed to Plymouth, Vt., in 1800.[3]

[1] There is a question as to which JOSIAH, Jonas, b. Apr. 13, 1773, m. Aug. 8, 1797, LUCY TEMPLE, is the son of. The compiler is inclined to believe he is the son of Josiah, Jr., and that he went to Plymouth, Vt., because his uncle Obadiah had settled there a little before 1790.

[2] Line of descent not definitely established, but facts and dates and family records indicate this is the line of descent of this Isaac.

[3] According to an old paper in possession of Prof. Guy Coolidge.

1. 3. 2. 5. 1. 3. JOHN COOLIDGE of Bolton, Mass., and Plymouth (Saltash), Vt., son of JOSIAH (of Watertown and Lancaster) and MARY (JONES) (of Brookline), b. probably at Bolton about 1756; d. at Plymouth, Mar. 22, 1822; m. at Lancaster, Sept. 8, 1779, HANNAH PRIEST, d. May 2, 1828, dau. of James and Hannah (Lawrence) of Marlborough, Mass

JOHN COOLIDGE served in the Revolutionary War, and is recorded as a private in Capt. Artemas Howe's Company, hastening to the Lexington Alarm, Apr. 19, 1775, serving seven days as minuteman, and enlisting April 25, in Capt. Robert Longley's Company, Col. Asa Whitcomb's Regiment, serving three months, thirteen days, with muster roll dated Aug. 1, 1775, and receipt for wages dated Aug., 1775, at Prospect Hill. He was serving in the same company and regiment Dec. 21, 1775, when an order was issued for a bounty coat, or for its equivalent in money. He served during the siege of Boston, and was probably present at Bunker Hill. Later he enlisted as private in Capt. Andrew Haskell's Company, Col. Thomas Marshall's Regiment, June 8, 1776, and served almost continuously therein until Dec. 1, 1776. It is somewhat difficult to state just what men may have been in any given battle, as different companies of the same regiment were assigned to various duties, except in cases where records specifically state. JOHN COOLIDGE may have been the Bolton man who gave three months' service in Rhode Island, the roll being dated July 21, 1781, in Capt. David Moore's Company, Lieut.-Col. Hallett's Regiment, and he was still stated as a private. Soon after this, JOHN COOLIDGE removed to Saltash (now Plymouth), Vt., where he cleared a farm. The title "captain" is sometimes written as belonging to him, but in answer to inquiries on the part of the compiler of this volume, in June, 1925, the office of the Adjutant General and the office of Secretary of State of Massachusetts, and the office of Secretary of State of Vermont, replied officially that they had no record of a commission of captain [1] being issued to this man; that he did not enlist in Vermont, and there is no record there of a militia captaincy; and that in Massachusetts his record through 1781 is as a private. Disappointing as this may be, his descendants may take pride in the fact that he was given this courtesy title by admiring fellow townsmen, which is doubtless the explanation, a tribute that vouches for his place in the community and in the hearts of his townsfolk. It may be, too, as tradition in the family has it, that he was chosen captain of the town forces on their annual training day, because of his war experience.

[1] The only JOHN COOLIDGE who was ever officially commissioned a captain in Massachusetts, for whom record can be found, was JOHN COOLIDGE of Sherborn and Natick, a descendant of the eldest son JOHN, who was commissioned by Francis Bernard, Governor, Oct. 1, 1762, during the reign of George III, in the French and Indian Wars, thirteen years before the Revolutionary War (see 1. 1. 6. 1. 2.).

In further proof of his position among his townspeople he was elected in March, 1789, a selectman at the first town meeting of Saltash.

Eight children:

Jan. 22, 1857, d. 1920.

Col. JOHN COOLIDGE received his title when he served on the staff of Governor William Wallace Stickney, 1900–02. In a political capacity he held the offices of town constable, collector of taxes, superintendent of schools, selectman of Plymouth, county deputy sheriff fifty years, representative in Vermont Legislature, 1872–78; and senator, 1910–12. He was also a justice of the peace, vice-president of the Ludlow Savings Bank and Trust Company, and trustee of the Black River Academy, in which academy, at Ludlow, he was educated after attending the public schools. He was a Republican and a Baptist.

Two children, born at Plymouth:

1. Calvin (originally named John Calvin), b. July 4, 1872; m. Oct. 4, 1905, GRACE ANNA GOODHUE.
2. Abbie Grace, b. Apr. 15, 1875; d. Mar. 6, 1890.

(B.A., cum laude, Amherst, 1895, and honorary LL.D. from various colleges, including Amherst, Tufts, Williams, Bates, Wesleyan University, and University of Vermont), son of Col. JOHN CALVIN and VICTORIA JOSEPHINE (MOOR), b. at Plymouth, Vt., July 4, 1872; m. at Burlington, Vt., Oct. 4, 1905, GRACE ANNA GOODHUE (Ph.B., University of Vermont, 1902), b. Jan. 3, 1879, dau. of Andrew I. and Lemira (Barrett) of Burlington. Reside at Northampton, Mass. Two children.

Hon. CALVIN COOLIDGE attained the highest honor it is possible to bestow upon an American citizen, — the Presidency of the United States, taking the oath of office, upon the death of President Warren G. Harding, in the early morning hours of Friday, Aug. 3, 1923. This dramatic climax to a most interesting career appealed to all American people, since it was his father, Col. JOHN COOLIDGE, who, as justice of the peace, administered the oath, in their simple home in the hills of Vermont.

At thirteen years of age CALVIN COOLIDGE first left his home to enter upon his broader education, — an education that has led steadily upward in steps of progress that are most interesting to follow, — when he was sent to attend the same academy his mother and father had attended, and which his sister Abbie was also then attending, — Black River Academy, at Ludlow, from which he graduated in 1890.

After taking his degree at Amherst, CALVIN COOLIDGE read law in the office of Hammond & Field of Northampton. He was admitted to the bar, June 29, 1897, and began the practice of his profession in that city, which soon began to pay his character tribute by bestowal of public office. He was member of the city council in 1899; city solicitor, 1900–01; clerk of the courts, 1904; chairman of the Republican City Committee the same year; representative in the Massachusetts General Court, 1907–08; mayor of Northampton, 1910–11; state senator, 1912–15, presiding as its president in 1914–15; Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts for three terms, — 1916, 1917 and 1918; Governor two terms, — 1919, 1920. His courage and his words of ultimatum in sustaining Police Commissioner Curtis at the time of the strike of the Boston police in the fall of 1919 brought to him country-wide attention and admiration, with the result that he was nominated by an overwhelming majority of the Republican delegates in convention in June, 1920, as Vice-President, with Mr. Harding chosen as presidential banner bearer. Both were elected to national office by a popular vote that swept the country, and by a large majority of the Electoral College, and Mr. Coolidge was inaugurated Vice-President of the United States, Mar. 4, 1921. Through the death of Mr. Harding he succeeded to the Presidency, as has been stated, Aug. 3, 1923, but in his own right was given overwhelming popular approval in his election to the Presidency in the fall of 1924, being inaugurated the following March. In the summer of 1928, to the disappointment of his party, and of his many warm admirers throughout the country, he announced that "he did not choose to run" for re-election.

Since Mar. 4, 1929, when Herbert Hoover was inaugurated President of the United States, Calvin Coolidge has resided at his former home at Northampton. He has written his autobiography, now in book form, and has engaged in other writings.

GRACE (GOODHUE) COOLIDGE before her marriage taught at Northampton, in Clarke School for the Deaf, 1902–04, which she attended after finishing her course at the University of Vermont, taking the training necessary to teach these afflicted persons.

Two children, born at Northampton:

Sept. 7, 1906 (A.B., Amherst, 1928); clerk New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, in the New Haven offices; appointed major on Governor Trumbull's staff; m. at Plainville, Conn., Sept. 23, 1929, FLORENCE TRUMBULL (A.B., Mount Holyoke, 1927), dau. of Governor and Mrs. John H. Trumbull of Plainville, Conn. Reside at Westville, a suburb of New Haven.
2. Calvin, b. Apr. 13, 1908; d. July 7, 1924. Calvin Coolidge was a brilliant student, and had before him a future that for one of his talents and unusual mentality should have been a most illustrious one in his own right. He was a student at Mercersburg Academy, Pa., at the time of his sad passing, and here he was a favorite with his classmates, and respected and admired by all with whom he came in contact. He was ambitious and level-headed, and wisely democratic, as was shown by his independent way of going to work in the tobacco fields during a summer vacation. He became the tragic victim of septicæmia, contracted from a blistered toe while playing tennis on the White House lawns, and died at Walter Reid Hospital.

Mar. 4, 1812; d. Mar. 16, 1886.

JONATHAN MARTIN in 1852 joined the gold rush to California, leaving his wife and young sons in Vermont. He mined successfully for gold, but later lost this money while mining for coal under Table Mountain, near Oroville, Butte County, and became superintendent for the Smith & Sparks Banner Mine. Three years later he bought a good farm in the vicinity of Dayton, and later bought a large ranch in Plumas County, where he engaged in stock raising and became a successful rancher. In 1860 he had returned to Vermont and brought his family to California, satisfied to dwell in this country.

Of nine children, several died young, and only two sons married; five lived to maturity:

About 1854, when Cotton Hill Academy — located in a quaint old town where the three counties of Clay, Quitman and Randolph, join, and which is today passed by, since inhabitants deserted it with the influx of business development elsewhere through the railroad and automobile, leaving only the old colonial church — was without a president, it came to pass that a Vermont scholar, who had been in Georgia for his health, learned of the vacancy, applied, and secured the office. The scholarly attainments of Prof. NORMAN COOLIDGE and his kindly personality made him a character even today remembered by those few remaining students of the Academy. When the Civil War broke out he, being an Abolitionist, did not enlist, and as a consequence was drafted to make shoes, since he had in his early days been in this industry. After the war he began the operation of a grist mill, and it is a family tradition that a printer's error in printing his name with an "e" on the firm's stationery is the cause of the change in spelling for this branch of the family,[1] as he could not afford to lose this stationery.

[1] It is to her that the compiler of this volume owes the information as to descendants of BENJAMIN KNOWLTON COOLIDGE, and HARRIET F. (who married Dr. JAMES BROWN), two of the children of OBADIAH and SARAH (KNOWLTON) COOLIDGE (see 1. 3. 2. 5. 1. 4. 3. and 1. 3. 2. 5. 1. 4. 9.).

8. Edward Eugene, b. at Demorestville, July 24, 1882; m. Ellen Louise Longwell. Reside at Saskatchewan, Can.; five children: 1. Harold. 2. Gerald. 3. Ira. 4. Norman. 5. Clara.

1. 3. 2. 5. 1. 5. or 1. 3. 2. 5. 4. 8. ISAAC COOLIDGE, b. at Bolton about 1761; d. at Sandusky, Ohio, in 1815. He was probably the son of Josiah and Mary (Jones), two of whose sons, John and Obadiah, went from Bolton, Mass., where they were born, to Plymouth, Vt. Obadiah later went to Jay, N. Y., as did several descendants of John. There is a chance that he may have been the son of Obadiah and Sarah (Davis), Obadiah having been the brother of Josiah. This Obadiah had a son Isaac, born about 1761, but facts in regard to him are not known. While the line of descent of this Isaac Coolidge, who d. at Sandusky, is not definitely established, facts as to residence and family records, with dates, and with names of children that are quite evidently family names in each generation, indicate that this is his line of descent. If he was the son of Obadiah and Sarah (Davis), it might have been quite probable that his uncle Isaiah or his uncle John adopted him into their families and took him to Plymouth, after the death of his father in 1767. The names of sons and grandsons of Isaiah and of this Isaac indicate family relationship.

Isaac Coolidge lived in the State of New York, then in Pennsylvania, then in Ohio. The identity of his wife is not known.

Five children:

1. Porter, who lived and died in Pennsylvania. He had six sons: Charles, Henry, Stephen, Curtis, Lester and Avery.
2. Stephen, lived and died in Canada, and had a son named Isaac.
3. Lyman.
4. John.
5. Isaac, b. in New York State or in Pennsylvania, Aug. 16, 1807; d. at Wayland township, Allegan County, Mich., Oct. 6, 1892. His wife d. at the same place, Sept. 26, 1882. He went with his father to Ohio, but later returned to Pennsylvania, where he m. at Greenfield, Erie County, Jan. 28, 1831, Anna Briggs, b. July 1, 1811, d. Sept. 26, 1882, dau. of Thomas and Sally L. (Stebbins). He changed the spelling of his name from "i" to "e," the tradition in the family being that this was due to the error of a printer who put his name "'Cooledge" on bags he was using in the grain business, and he could not afford to lose these bags.[1]

[1] Compare this tradition with that in the family of Norman Flavius Cooledge of Norcross, Ga. (see 1. 3. 2. 5. 1. 3. 2. 8.).

Four children, the first born at Greenfield, Pa.; the others born at Burton, Ohio:

1. Mary Elizabeth, b. May 2, 1832; d. at Wayland, Mich., May 2, 1899; m. at Burton, Ohio, Oct. 22, 1852, Bradley Lampson, b. 1833, d. 1899. Resided at Wayland, Mich.

[1] It is not definitely established that Isaiah was a son of Obadiah and Rachel (Goddard) Coolidge, but his movements from Watertown to Roxbury, to Bolton, at the same time that others of this family were living in these towns, and the fact that a son was named Obediah (5), would indicate that this is his line of descent. A descendant states that it is the belief of her family that ISAIAH was the son of OBADIAH and RACHEL (GODDARD).

Joseph Coolidge, who had been an ardent patriot, serving his country well during the years leading to the Revolution, was the only Watertown man to fall in the defence of Concord and Lexington. Justly may his descendants be proud of him. That Watertown was, too, was attested one hundred years later to the very day, when it accepted on Apr. 19, 1875, from Joseph's descendants a handsome memorial erected in his honor in the old burying ground, not a rod from the stones that mark the graves of the Colonists, John and Mary, his ancestors.

The Coolidge farm at Brookline was located in the area that now includes Coolidge Corner, and members of this branch of the family became grocers in an old building where now stands the modern block of S. S. Pierce. In this manner the location came to be called Coolidge's Corner[1], then shortened to Coolidge Corner. Woods, in his history of Brookline, says that for many years the market gardens of the Wards, Davises, Moses Joneses, the Stearnses, Griggses, Coolidges, Coreys, etc., furnished the earliest and choicest fruits and vegetables for the Boston market.

[1] The town clerk of Brookline has kindly stated that Coolidge Corner was undoubtedly named for the DAVID COOLIDGE branch of the family, both for his farm being in this location, and for the grocery stores managed by the sons, as the name was in existence about 1850.

CHAPTER V

DESCENDANTS OF THE THIRD SON, NATHANIEL COOLIDGE

Nathaniel Coolidge of Watertown, third son and fourth child of John and Mary Coolidge, the Colonists of 1630, was undoubtedly born at Watertown[1] in 1634.

Nathaniel Coolidge was a man of financial and political influence in his home town, and descendants may be proud of him as one in whom confidence and respect were shown, as records of his activities prove.

Although listed in old deeds as a tailor, he was a large farmer and miller, and chief owner of the famous fishery weirs on the Charles River, which were deemed in those days of considerable importance. He was selectman of Watertown in 1677, but served apprenticeship in many interesting town tasks during the previous years. In 1661 he was chosen by the selectmen to see to the well-ordering of fences; in 1663 there is record of payment for this "perambulation." In 1665 he was constable; in 1671, chosen by the selectmen to take inventory of the estate of the town; in 1676, chosen "cummitioner" to join with the selectmen in taking invoice for the country rate; in the same year he and Simon Stone were chosen to keep the town book; and on Jan. 5, 1679, the selectmen swore him in as tithingman, proving him a church member. In those days only those of tact, courage, and dignity were chosen for this difficult office of maintaining order.

[1] Records of vital statistics were quite evidently not kept in Watertown before 1634, when the affairs of the town were first organized under the group of three selectmen, one a clerk, who possibly inaugurated a system of records of births, marriages and deaths at the same time that records of town affairs were begun. Possibly the beginning of the latter awakened officials to the necessity for the former. In the year 1630, the only records are of two deaths; in 1631, two deaths; in 1632, four births and one death. It is impossible to believe that in a community of over seventy people there were no births in 1630 or 1631, which would indicate that record was kept only spasmodically, and then, perhaps, by some especially interested person in one event. For this reason, it is no argument that a child was born in England, because no record is found of his birth at Watertown during those first few years. Nathaniel Coolidge married in 1657. Taking into account that marriages were entered into at earlier years at that time, still he must have been over seventeen years of age, which would necessitate his birth before 1640. Considering the years of birth of the other children of John and Mary, Elizabeth, probably 1631, Simon, 1632, Mary, 1637, and Stephen, 1639, Nathaniel's birth would most logically have been about 1634.

Administration of his estate was granted Nov. 11, 1711, to his sons Nathaniel and Jonathan, and record of that administration in settlement later proves it satisfactory and harmonious to the widow and to all heirs. Inventory of his real estate — three farms, mills and fishing weirs — amounted to £412.

Of his wife's family, there is a most interesting history of the BRIGHTS of England, who were people of influence and means at Bury St. Edmunds. Henry Bright, Jr., Mary's father, must have come to the Colonies as early as 1630, probably at the same time as Governor Winthrop, since he came from the same county (Suffolk), their families being related by marriage, and his name is forty-eighth on the list of members of the first church at Boston (Charlestown), which proves his membership in 1630.

He was in early life a sergeant; was admitted freeman May 6, 1635; was many times a selectman of Watertown, between 1640 and 1667; and for a long time held the office of Deacon. He was a juror, at the age of 82, in the Court of Assistants, July 22, 1684. His will proved that he left much land, property and many possessions to his sons and daughters.

At the organization of the church at Watertown Farms (Weston), Oct. 2, 1709, Nathaniel Coolidge's name was the first on the list of the original members, by dismissal from the First Church of Watertown.

His will may be found recorded in Middlesex Probate Files 5131.

[1] For quite complete details as to descendants of these branches of the Stone family, with Coolidge ancestry, readers are referred to a recent book (1926) compiled by J. Gardner Bartlett, entitled "Simon Stone Genealogy." A partial quotation shows careers:

"Capt Jonas Stone was a weaver and farmer, and a deacon in the church, being the fifth generation of his direct 'Stone' line to hold this office. He succeeded to the mansion on the southwesterly side of Dedham Street, in the Oak Hill district, which had been built by his father in 1723. In 1762, and several times later, he was elected a selectman of Newton. On Dec. 29, 1763, he was commissioned captain of the 2d Newton Company in Col. William Brattle's Regiment. Although fifty years of age when the Revolution broke out, he took the field in the patriotic cause, in which he served in Capt. Jeremiah Wiswall's Company which marched on the Lexington alarm, Apr. 19, 1775.

"Moses Stone succeeded to a half interest in the homestead of his grandfather, Deacon Simon, the ancestral farm being on what is now Mount Auburn cemetery. On the death of his mother he came into complete possession, also more than doubled his estate by purchases, to about 150 acres, and was listed on Watertown tax list, Dec. 1, 1774, the largest taxpayer of 200, with property valued at more than £161. Although over fifty years of age at the time of the Revolution, he also served therein, being at Dorchester Heights, in Capt. Phineas Stearns' Company."

Lydia Jones' father, Capt. Josiah, of Watertown Farms, was admitted freeman, Apr. 19, 1690; was one of the original members of the First Church at Weston, and one of its first deacons, being elected Jan. 4, 1709–10. He owned among other property a 124-acre farm at Sudbury. About 1690 the three precincts of Watertown — Watertown, Waltham and Weston — were designated as the precincts of Capt. Bond's Company, of Capt. Garfield's Company, and of Lieut. Jones' Company. His wife, Lydia Treadway, was the daughter of Nathaniel Treadway (a weaver, who settled first at Sudbury, afterwards at Watertown, where he was selectman, 1653, 1655, 1664, 1666, 1669, 1670 and 1672) and Sufferana (How) (dau. of Elder Edward How, one of the largest original proprietors of Watertown, part owner of a mill; selectman, 1637, 1639, 1641, 1642 and 1643; and representative, 1642 and 1643).

Daniel Coolidge was a soldier in the Revolutionary War. He is first recorded as a private in Capt. Phineas Stearns' Company, which marched from Watertown, by order of General Washington, to reinforce the army at the taking of Dorchester Heights, in March, 1776; service, five days. His next recorded service is as private in Nathaniel Heath's Company, enlisted May 6, 1779, from which date he served continuously, re-enlisting at the end of each three months, serving with guards in and about Boston, under Major Heath, until Oct. 7, 1780, when he served with the guards at Watertown, under Sergt. Samuel Richards, an order dated July 13, 1781, for wages, showing him still at Watertown on that date, in service.

He is probably the Daniel Coolidge mentioned in the "History of Bernardston" as a warden there in 1781. A part of Bernardston was set off into what is now Colrain in 1779, and in 1811 Leyden was set off from Bernardston.

1. 4. 2. 3. 7. JOSIAH COOLIDGE, JR., of Weston and Colrain, son of JOSIAH and DELIVERANCE (WARREN), b. at Weston, July 6, 1744; d. soon after Sept. 9, 1814; m. July 11, 1764, TABITHA FULHAM, b. Mar. 10, 1745/6, dau. of Elisha and Sarah (Hagar) of Lancaster.

Josiah Coolidge, Jr.,[1] and his wife Tabitha were owners of the Church Covenant, Apr. 14, 1765. Josiah, Sr. and Jr., were owners of property at Fitchburg, Lancaster and Pembroke, with mention in deeds of conveyances from Elisha Fulham and Francis Fulham of Fitchburg (formerly Lunenburg), late of Weston, Francis being great-grandfather of Tabitha.

Josiah Coolidge, Jr., was surveyor of highways at Bernardston in 1776. He was a Revolutionary soldier for three years, from Feb. 18, 1778, to Jan., 1780, when he hired a man for the balance of the period to Feb. 18, 1781; private in Capt. Wood's Company, Col. Baldwin's Regiment of Artificers. His children were born here between 1765 and 1787. Conveyances of property from him to his sons Israal and Nathan are recorded in 1800 and 1814.

A part of Bernardston was set off into what is now Colrain in 1779, and another part was set off into what is now Leyden in 1811.

Children:

1. Polly, b. at Weston, Feb. 7, 1765; m. at Colrain, Feb. 12, 1785, THOMAS ARMS, Jr., of Deerfield.
2. Sally, b. at Colrain; m. Oct. 16, 1804, JACOB RICKARDS.
3. Samuel, b. at Colrain; d. 1861; m. May 21, 1814, NANCY LYONS. He served in the War of 1812. He built a house and brick store in Colrain, both of which were still standing in 1926. He probably had the following children, born at Colrain:

   Four children:

   1. Amanda, m. Sept. 9, 1835, TRUMAN SHATTUCK of Colrain.
   2. Benjamin Franklin, m. Nov. 21, 1839, ELIZABETH DRURY.
   3. Louisa, m. Sept. 30, 1840, JOSEPH W. MCGEE.
   4. Sophrona, m. Apr. 29, 1843, HORACE MCGEE.
4. Israal.

[1] It is difficult to ascertain which descendants are of Josiah, Jr., and which of his Brother Daniel (see 1. 4. 2. 3. 6.), as both were at Bernardston (Colrain and Leyden) in the latter part of 1700. Confusion arises because the early records were incomplete, and many were lost or destroyed. The compiler of this branch could only take returns as given by descendants, and, after casting out the obvious inaccuracies, use them as returned. Josiah and Tabitha Coolidge went to Colrain soon after the birth of their first child, Polly (b. at Weston, Feb. 7, 1765), where six children were born, of whom there has been found trace. There probably were more, — nine or ten, — as Mr. Walter Coolidge of Sun Prairie, Wis., descendant of one son, Nathan, has an old Bible of his father Aaron's, in which is written this information, and the names of his grandfather and grandmother, Josiah, Jr., and Tabitha Fulham. Mr. Walter Coolidge has furnished the information for his line, which he has generously requested the compiler of this genealogy to use in whole or in part. The author acknowledges his courtesy most gratefully.

5. John G. of Adams County, Ill. (probably a son, as some of his estate was probated at Colrain).
6. Phebe, m. Apr. 22, 1815, Samuel Brown.
7. Nathan, b. at Colrain, July 16, 1787; d. at Truxton, N. Y., Dec. 19, 1854; m. 1827, Cornelia Height, b. Sept. 5, 1804, d. Sept. 3, 1843, dau. of Aaron. He was a trafficker and trader during the period 1812 to 1827, going through the wilderness of New York from Canada to Pennsylvania. About 1827 he settled on a farm about three miles north of Truxton, N. Y.; here, besides farming, he also made hand-made boots and shoes.

   Five children:

   1. Josiah, b. Mar. 2, 1828; d. May, 1844.
   2. Aaron, b. Oct. 31, 1829; m. Nov. 12, 1854, Ann E. Elliott.
   3. Eli, b. Oct. 31, 1831; m. about 1856, Mary Tomlinson.

Y., and Windsor, Wis., son of Nathan and Cornelia (Height), b. at Truxton, Oct. 31, 1829; d. at Sun Prairie, Wis., Jan. 1, 1908; m. at Lodi, Wis., Nov. 12, 1854, Ann E. Elliott, b. at Haydon Bridge, Northumberland County, Eng., July 6, 1836, d. at Sun Prairie, Dec. 21, 1913, dau. of John and Mary.

From 1850 to 1853 he worked in his father's shoe shop, making hand-made boots and shoes, living on the farm at Truxton; then he set forth for the West. After various adventures, earning his living on the way, he purchased land, and had his farm at Vienna (Windsor). Here he, and the family he raised, stayed for fifty years, when, in 1904, he and his wife sold the farm, and bought a home at Sun Prairie.

William Coolidge lived successively in Boston, London, England, where from 1790 to 1799 he was a wealthy importing merchant, Worcester, and finally Watertown again.

He is probably the William Coolidge who resided for a while at Tiverton, R. I., and whose descendants resided at Weymouth, where they were in the shoe-making business. It has not been definitely established just where the following branch of the family comes in, but this is the only known branch to have been at Tiverton, R. I., and a sister of the above William (2), Lucy (6), who m. Samuel Learned, had a daughter Maria, evidently named for her aunt (William's wife), and Maria's son, Charles Walter Stetson was the famous artist living at Tiverton, indicating Charles was a family name. Moreover, one of William's children by his first wife, Maria May, was named William B. He died young, and we find a William B., born 1807, in the following family, and the custom of naming several children the same, when the first so named died, is well known.

After the death of his first wife in 1797, WILLIAM COOLIDGE probably m. RACHEL ANDREWS. It is known that William and Rachel (Andrews) Coolidge had three children, and probably the fourth shown here is a son.

CHAPTER VI

DESCENDANTS OF THE SECOND DAUGHTER, MARY COOLIDGE

1. 5. MARY COOLIDGE[1] of Watertown, dau. of JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE, the Colonists, of 1630, b. Oct. 14, 1637; d. Mar. 2, 1659/60; m. Sept. 19, 1655, ISAAC MIXER, Jr., b. 1630, d. Nov. 22, 1716, "an aged man," son of Isaac and Sarah. After the death of Mary (Coolidge) Isaac married twice, having 13 children by his second wife.

He was 4 years old when his father, Isaac Mixer, Sr., aged 31, and his mother Sarah, aged 33, embarked at Ipswich, Eng., Apr. 10, 1634, for New England, in the "Elizabeth," of which ship William Andrews was master. His father's name is on the earliest list of proprietors of Watertown (Feb., 1636–37), and he was admitted freeman, May 2, 1638. His will, dated May 8, 1655, shows him a prosperous man, owning a ship, the "Diligent." He was clerk of the Train Band, Apr. 4, 1654; he was selectman, 1651 and 1655, and he was also appointed by the county court, sealer of weights and measures. He had only two children: Isaac, Jr., who married into the Coolidge family; and Sarah, who married John Stearns, and they settled in Billerica, having one son, John.

ISAAC MIXER, Jr., took the oath of fidelity in 1652. He was selectman of Watertown many times between 1673 and 1701, and town clerk in 1692.

Two children, born at Watertown:

1. Mary, b. May 18, 1656; m. 1680, GEORGE MUNNINGS, Jr., b. 1655. His father, George Munnings, is on the earliest list of proprietors; admitted freeman, Mar. 14, 1634/5, having embarked at Ipswich, Eng., for New England, Apr., 1634, aged 37, with his wife, Elizabeth, aged 41, daughter Elizabeth, aged 12, and daughter Abigail, aged 7. Records of his sales of lands, meadows and houses prove him a man of means. George Munnings, Sr., evidently enjoyed the friendship and confidence of Robert Saltonstall, son of Sir Richard Saltonstall, as he was named executor, — and a legatee, — together with an uncle of Robert, John Clarke, in his will, proved Aug. 15, 1650. He was "keeper of the countrie's prison" at Boston, "freed from executing public correction and execution, by order of the General Court, May 6, 1646," until after Nov., 1654. He was also authorized by the General Court, Oct. 7, 1646, with Mr. Aspinwall, to lay out land granted to Capt. Jennison, Richard Brown, Robert Keayne and others. Obscurity of records made it impossible to trace descendants in time for this volume.

2. Sarah, b. Nov. 29, 1657; m. SAMUEL HAGAR.

1. 5. 2. SARAH MIXER of Watertown, dau. of MARY (COOLIDGE)[5] and ISAAC MIXER, b. Nov. 29, 1657; d. at Waltham, 1745; m. SAMUEL HAGAR, b. Nov. 20, 1647 (twin), d. Feb. 13, 1704 5, son of William and Mary (Bemis). Mary Bemis was probably a sister of Joseph Bemis, who was in Watertown as early as 1640, and he was selectman in that town in 1648, 1672 and 1675.

Four children:

1. Sarah, bp. May 24, 1691; m. Aug. 19, 1717, JOSEPH STRATTON.

   6. Moses, b. Sept. 27, 1737.
   7. Mary, bp. Dec. 3, 1738.
   8. Jonathan, b. Mar. 18, 1741/2.
   9. Abigail, bp. Jan. 20, 1743/4.
   10. Sarah, bp. Aug. 26, 1744.
   11. John, bp. Dec. 8, 1745.
   12. Susan, b. Oct. 26, 1746.
   13. Elijah, b. Oct. 13, 174–.
   14. Lucy, bp. Jan. 29, 1748/9.
4. Isaac, b. Apr. 24, 1701; m. July 16, 1724, PRUDENCE ALLEN.

1. 5. 2. 1. SARAH HAGAR of Watertown, dau. of Samuel and Sarah (Mixer), bp. May 24, 1691; d. Feb. 8, 1771; m. Aug. 19, 1717, Joseph Stratton, of Waltham, son of Joseph and Sarah (How), b. 1696, d. Mar. 10, 1774.

Seven children:

1. Elizabeth, b. June 12, 1718; m. June 16, 1736, Samuel Harrington of Westborough.
2. Sarah, b. Mar. 6, 1720/1; m. (int.) Feb. 14, 1744, Shubael Child of Weston.
3. Lydia, b. July 22, 1722; m. May 1, 1750, Jonathan Hammond, selectman of Waltham, 1765–74; seven children. Their sixth child, Jonathan Hammond, b. Apr. 12, 1764; m. May 3, 1785, Elizabeth Coolidge, desc. of Lieut. Richard, b. 1767, dau. of Jonas and Anna (Harrington) (see 1. 1. 8. 6. 1. 1. on page 140). They had eight children. On the death of Jonathan Hammond, Nov. 13, 1807, Elizabeth m. Sept. 29, 1808, Gen. Jonathan Coolidge of Waltham (desc. of Nathaniel), selectman and representative.
4. Jemima (twin), b. Feb. 13, 1724/5; m. May 19, 1748, Joseph Garfield of Weston; three children.
5. Kezia (twin), b. Feb. 13, 1724 5; m. May 19, 1748, John Myrick of Weston; seven children.
6. Joseph, b. Apr. 25, 1729; d. Oct. 17, 1750.
7. Benjamin, b. May 19, 1732; m. Feb. 2, 1764, Hepzibah Stearns.

   Two children:

   1. Lois, bp. Feb. 16, 1772.
   2. Joseph, bp. May 14, 1775.

1. 5. 2. 4. ISAAC HAGAR of Weston, son of Samuel and Sarah (Mixer), b. Apr. 24, 1701; m. July 16, 1724, Prudence Allen, b. May 18, 1703, dau. of Joseph and Elizabeth (Allen).

Of twelve children, descendants are known for but four, the others dying young, unmarried, or facts are unknown about them. Records for the first, second, sixth and eleventh are shown:

1. Isaac, b. May 5, 1725; m. (int.) Feb. 16, 1754, Elizabeth King of Sudbury; four children. Of these, 1. Phineas, b. Apr. 6, 1755; m. May 24, 1784, Susanna Leadbeater, b. May 1, 1762; nine children.

Mrs. Davenport still resides at Watertown, greatly interested in all civic, historic and patriotic affairs. Dr. Davenport had the honor of being one of the committee of five to assemble and arrange for publication the early records of Watertown, a set of volumes of civil and ecclesiastical affairs that is invaluable. The town meeting of Watertown, held March 23, 1891, voted to appropriate the sum of $1,000 for the publication of these records, with the Historical Society of that town taking charge of the work. The Society appointed the committee, of which Dr. Davenport was one, attesting not only the regard in which he was held, but the respect which was accorded his knowledge of matters historical.

Four children:

1. Grace Coolidge (A.B., Radcliffe, 1902), b. at Boston, Dec. 27, 1877; m. June 27, 1906, HENRY J. WINSLOW (A.B., Harvard, 1902) of Cambridge; one son, Henry Davenport, b. Sept. 24, 1910.

CHAPTER VII

DESCENDANTS OF THE SIXTH SON AND YOUNGEST CHILD, JONATHAN COOLIDGE, SCION OF THE BOSTON BRANCH

1. 8. JONATHAN[2] COOLIDGE of Watertown, son of JOHN and MARY COOLIDGE, the COLONISTS, of 1630, b. at Watertown, Mar. 10, 1646/7; d. Feb. or Mar., 1723/4; m. Dec. 3, 1679, MARTHA RICE, b. Jan. 14, 1661/2, d. Dec. 10, 1695, dau. of Joseph and Mercy (King) of Sudbury.

JONATHAN COOLIDGE, like his father, and brothers, was interested in town affairs, and was appointed to serve on committees in various capacities. He seems to have been a surveyor by trade, as records constantly speak of missions of this sort given to him by the selectmen of Watertown. He must have been able to work well with his oldest brother, JOHN, who was a carpenter. At a meeting of the selectmen held at the "house of old goodman Coolidge's," Sept. 20, 1681, Thomas Flagg, Jr., and Jonathan Coolidge were chosen surveyors for "ye high waise." In April, 1717, there is record of report to the selectmen of Watertown, by Jonathan Smith and Nathan Fiske, that they had met with Jonathan Coolidge and Daniel Cooke, as ordered, and renewed the town marks between Newton and Watertown. When Newton and Watertown were separated, his farm was found to be in Newton, although he continued to serve Watertown in many capacities. On Nov. 1, 1680, Jonathan Coolidge and William Shattuck were chosen for inspection of defects in swine and cattle fences, this task being assigned only to men of dependability, for in those days many a quarrel arose over damages inflicted by straying animals, and, indeed, over ownership of such lost creatures, so that it can be seen that this duty, far from being the apparently amusing one it seems to read, was of great importance. Another proof of his character, doubtless in a combination of tact, dignity and authority, was his being chosen tythingman, Mar. 6, 1682 3, these officers for maintaining order in the church and community being selected with great care because of the delicate nature of their task. This, moreover, proves him a church member of the early Watertown church.

He evidently owned much timber land, and was a thrifty soul, for there is record in the town accounts of a sum of money paid to him Nov. 27, 1716, for timber "to make ye bridge by Daniel Livermore's."

He accumulated enough of this world's goods to bequeath in his will, dated Feb. 12, 1723 4, to his son Jonathan, to his daughter Martha, to his son John, and to his grandchild Martha Spooner. (Middlesex Probate Files 5104.)

His wife, Martha (Rice), was the granddaughter of Edmund Rice of Sudbury, the first of this name to settle in this country, being at Sudbury in 1639, and this excellent man made himself the beloved and revered of all the colony, his capability, his character and his integrity being attested by many old records. He was one of the original petitioners to make Sudbury a town, was its selectman, a deacon, a justice of the peace, and a member of the General Court, and was universally spoken of as "Goodman Rice," a tribute to the place he held in the trust and affection of his townsmen.

Seven children, born at Watertown:

1. Martha, b. June 6, 1683; d. unm., about 1753. She adopted her niece Martha Spooner, dau. of her sister Rebecca, who d. when her daughter was about 8 years old. In her will, dated May 22, 1751, Martha Coolidge mentioned children of her sisters and brothers, and the children of her adopted daughter, Martha.

Daniel Boyer, father of Elizabeth and Katherine, was the son of James and Marianne (Johonnot), the latter being the daughter of a French Huguenot, — Daniel Johonnot, — who came to Massachusetts in 1686, with his family and relatives, settling in Oxford, so that for a second time this branch can claim the distinction of the blood of the brave and gentle Huguenots. Elizabeth Bulfinch, wife of Daniel Boyer, was the daughter of John and the granddaughter of Adino Bulfinch, who came to America in 1680.

Joseph Coolidge was equally interested in the cause of the Colonists in the Revolution as his brother John, serving in this war, and being one of the "Indians" of the Boston Tea Party.

He founded a business as importer of British and other goods, an established importing concern that was handed down to his son Joseph, in those days a trade in high repute.

1.8.5.4.1.1.2.3.1. JOSEPH RANDOLPH COOLIDGE, JR., of Boston and Brookline, architect (A.B., summa cum laude, Harvard, 1883; A.M., ib., 1884), son of JOSEPH RANDOLPH and JULIA (GARDNER), b. at Boston, May 17, 1862; d. Aug. 8, 1928; m. Oct. 28, 1886, MARY HAMILTON HILL, b. Oct. 16, 1862, dau. of Hamilton A. and Mary Eliza (Robbins).

After graduating from Harvard, JOSEPH RANDOLPH COOLIDGE was instructor in Spanish at Harvard, 1883–84, then attended the Dresden Polytechnic, 1884; University of Berlin, 1885; Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1888–90; Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris, 1891–94; and began practice as an architect in Boston, 1894. He was a member of the firm of architects, Coolidge & Carlson, Boston. He was trustee of Boston Athenæum; director, Museum of Fine Arts; director, Family Welfare Society, 1906; secretary, Boston Society of Architects, 1904–05; its president, 1905–07; first vice-president, Boston Chamber of Commerce, 1912–13; and its president, 1913–14. They resided at Brookline, and after his retirement from business in 1922, resided at Sandwich, N. H., in which town and State he held many public offices, including service in the House of Representatives in 1924, and re-elected in 1926. He was elected in Mar., 1928, an alternate to the Republican National Convention. He was appointed by the Governor and Council, trustee, New Hampshire State Library; member (becoming chairman), Fiftieth Anniversary Conference of American Library Association; appointed Mar. 7, 1927, by the Governor to represent him in Washington, D. C., before the Forest Purchasing Commission; and appointed Dec. 1, 1927, also by the Governor, a member of the Commission to show President Coolidge New England's interest in the preservation of forests in the Waterville Notch. He was trustee of Wentworth Library, of Sandwich, and was constantly helping small libraries in making over or building new libraries, becoming known as a "consultant" on this management. He helped organize the Sandwich Home Industries, and after his death a committee voted to use money he had contributed, to buy and remodel a house to be used for this organization as a memorial to him for his many splendid services to the town. MARY (HILL) COOLIDGE was from Feb., 1917, to Nov., 1920, head of the Department of Volunteer Service at the Boston Chapter of Red Cross. In Feb., 1926, she was made chairman of a committee appointed by the Sandwich Historical Society to try to recreate the old handicrafts of the town. This resulted in the organization of the Sandwich Home Industries, with classes in weaving, cabinetmaking, metal work, toy-boat building, etc.; and all these handmade articles, made by the men, women and children of the town, are received at the old house owned by the Historical Society, and sold. Mrs. Coolidge, besides this interesting constructive work, is a trustee of the Wentworth Library of the town.

He was a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and in the spring of 1862 was an acting assistant surgeon in the Hospital Service of the United States in the Civil War; in 1868–69 he was a lecturer at Harvard Medical School; and he was surgeon at Massachusetts General Hospital. He was keenly interested in historical and genealogical records, and was the author of a genealogy of the Boston branch of the Coolidge family, printed in 1900.

Five children:

1. Dr. Algernon of Boston, physician (A.B., cum laude, Harvard, 1881; M.D., ib., 1886), b. Jan. 24, 1860; m. Dec. 15, 1896, Amy Peabody Lothrop, b. Mar. 28, 1869, dau. of Thornton Kirkland and Anne Maria (Hooper) of Boston. He became assistant professor of laryngology at Harvard University in 1906; professor in 1911, and professor emeritus in 1925. He has practiced at Boston since 1888, as physician for diseases of the throat, at Massachusetts General Hospital, 1893–1920 (a trustee of that institution since 1921), and as clinical instructor in his special subject, 1893–1906, at Harvard. He is the author of "Diseases of the Nose and Throat," 1915, as well as of many medical articles. Dr. COOLIDGE was, from 1923 to 1929, one of the Genealogical Committee of five members appointed in June, 1923, by the president of the Coolidge Family Association, Hon. Louis Arthur Coolidge. Mrs. Coolidge is president of the Boston Home and School Visitors' Association. They reside on Beacon Street, Boston.

Three children:

1. Anne (A.B., Bryn Mawr, 1920), b. Nov. 4, 1897.
2. Algernon Lothrop, b. May 24, 1900; d. Nov. 16, 1927.

Dec. 22, 1927, dau. of Charles Tallman and Sarah Brackett (Richardson) of Boston. FRANCIS LOWELL COOLIDGE began his active career in the cotton mills, Waltham, 1884, going to Lowell in the same business, 1886; he was for seven years with Bay State Trust Company, Boston; and has been a cotton broker at Boston since 1895. He was a member of the Boston School Committee, 1897–1903, and secretary, Young Men's Democratic Club of Massachusetts, 1896–1901. He is an active member of King's Chapel, Boston; at present a member of the vestry. Resides at Boston, winters; at Milton, summers. No children. Mrs. Coolidge was the author of several entertaining books for children, including "The Bunnies of Evergreen Village," "The Refugees in Evergreen Village," and "Evergreen Village to the Rescue." She generously gave the proceeds of the first book to Mrs. John Gardner Coolidge, who distributed the fund to the children of Paris during the World War. She gave the proceeds of the second book to Miss Harriet C. Rantoul of Salem for similar purposes at Paris, and of the third book to Miss Edith Bangs for hospital work at Rheims. She was the author of her own "Early Reminiscences," and of "Random Thoughts," the latter a collection of essays, some of which had been published in "The Forum" and in "Cheerful Letters," a Unitarian magazine. Many of her articles on timely topics also appeared in various newspapers.

3. Sidney of Concord, corporation treasurer (A.B., Harvard, 1911, as of 1886), b. at Boston, Mar. 8, 1864; m. at St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 13, 1890, MARY LAURA COLT, b. Dec. 17, 1866, dau. of Benjamin Fletcher and Helen (Buckingham). SIDNEY COOLIDGE's business career has held many interests. He was with Hannibal & St. Joseph Railroad, 1886–92; with Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, 1892–98; assistant treasurer, Stark Mills, Manchester, Mass., 1898–99, its treasurer, 1899–1901; treasurer, Fore River Ship and Engine Company, Quincy, 1901–03; treasurer, Lowell Bleachery, 1903–26, and its president since then. He was president of Lowell Bleachery — South, 1922–26; president of National Fabric and Finishing Company, Boston, 1924–27; president of the Coolidge Family Association, 1926–28; and was president of Emerson Hospital, Concord. They reside at Concord.

1. 8. 5. 4. 1. 1. 2. 6. HON. THOMAS JEFFERSON COOLIDGE of Boston, merchant, financier, diplomat (A.B., Harvard, 1850; A.M., ib., 1853; LL.D., ib., 1902), son of Joseph and Eleonora Wayles (Randolph), b. Aug. 26, 1831; d. Nov. 17, 1920; m. Nov. 4, 1852, Hetty Sullivan Appleton, b. May 29, 1831; d. Mar. 18, 1901, dau. of William and Mary Ann (Cutler) of Boston.

Hon. Thomas Jefferson Coolidge was long prominent in business and financial circles, known especially as director, treasurer (1876), then president (1897), of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, at Manchester, N. H. He was president of several railroads, including Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé, Oregon Railroad, Navigation Company, and Boston & Lowell Railroad; and director of Boston & Maine, of Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, and of Kansas, Forst Scott & Memphis Railroads. He was director of the Bay State Trust Company, of Massachusetts Hospital Life Insurance Company, of Merchants National Bank, and of New England and Old Colony Trust Companies, as well as others. In 1858 he became president of the Boott Manufacturing Company, which had three large mills in Lawrence; some years later, of Lawrence Cotton Manufacturing Company; then, in 1876, treasurer of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company. He was appointed by the Governor of Massachusetts, and the President of the United States upon various important commissions, and was United States Minister to France in 1892–93. He was a delegate to the Pan-American Congress, and after his service as Minister to France he was a member of the Joint High Commission to adjust disputes between the United States and Canada.

For eleven years he was a member of the Board of Overseers for Harvard University (1886–97), and he gave to that institution the Jefferson Physical Research Laboratory, costing $115,000, and $50,000 for a chemical laboratory, the latter as a memorial to his son.

Four children, born at Boston:

1. Marian Appleton, b. Sept. 7, 1853; m. at Boston, Nov. 16, 1876, her second cousin, Lucius Manlius Sargent, lawyer, treasurer of corporations (A.B., Harvard, 1870; LL.B., ib., 1875), b. at Roxbury, July 5, 1848, d. at Boston, Nov. 14, 1893, son of Horace Binney and Elizabeth Little (Swett) (see 1. 8. 5. 4. 1. 1. 1. 1. 2., on page 337).

   3. Julia Appleton, b. Nov. 1, 1891; m. Apr. 19, 1913, William Redmond Cross, son of R. James and Matilda (Redmond). They now reside at Bernardsville, N. J.

Five children, born at New York City:
1. Emily Redmond, b. Feb. 10, 1914.
2. Richard James, b. Mar. 31, 1915.
3. William Redmond, b. Apr. 26, 1917.
4. Thomas Newbold, b. Feb. 19, 1920.
5. Mary Newbold, b. Aug. 5, 1925.

4. Thomas Jefferson, Jr., of Boston, banker (A.B., Harvard, 1884, magna cum laude in history), b. Mar. 16, 1863; d. Apr. 14, 1912; m. at Boston, Sept. 30, 1891, CLARA AMORY, dau. of Charles Walter and Elizabeth (Gardner) of Boston. Associated with his father, THOMAS JEFFERSON COOLIDGE, Jr., founded in 1890 the well-known Boston institution, Old Colony Trust Company of which he was the first president. Resided at Manchester.
Four children:
1. Thomas Jefferson (A.B., magna cum laude, Harvard, 1915), b. Sept. 17, 1893; president of the Boston Art Museum; overseer of Harvard University; vice-president, First National Bank, Boston; m. at San Mateo, Cal., Aug. 20, 1927, CATHERINE HILL KUHN, dau. of William S. and Katherine (Hill); dau., Catherine, b. 2. Amory (A.B., Harvard, 1917), b. Mar. 23, 1895; vice-president of Pepperell Manufacturing Company.
3. William Appleton (A.B., Harvard, 1924, cum laude in history); a graduate of Balliot, Oxford, 1927; b. Oct. 22, 1901.
4. John Linzee, b. Mar. 21, 1905; d. May 22, 1917.

1. 8. 5. 4. 1. 6. CHARLES COOLIDGE of Boston, son of JOSEPH and ELIZABETH (BOYER), b. 1781; d. Sept. 14, 1821; m. Apr. 1, 1805, MEHITABLE TEMPLEMAN, b. 1786; d. Feb. 1, 1819, dau. of John (a native of England) and Mehitable (Bacon) (Lawless) of Boston and of Georgetown, D. C.

There is a bit of romance that is of interest in this marriage, worthy of mention here. When Mehitable Templeman's father, John, came from England, he brought a letter of introduction to Dr. Thomas Bulfinch, Jr., the father of Elizabeth Bulfinch, who married Joseph Coolidge, the brother of Charles (above). Dr. Bulfinch aided Mr. Templeman to establish his practice of dentistry. It is doubtless through the association with his brother's wife's father that Charles Coolidge met Mehitable Templeman.

Six children:

1. Charles, b. at Boston, May 30, 1806; m. (1st) June 14, 1827, LOUISA ANN NOBLE DILLINGHAM; ten children; m. (2d) Feb. 26, 1868, Mrs. FRANCES D. (POPE) PALMER. (For his descendants, see 1. 8. 5. 4. 1. 6. 1.)

2. Catherine Boyer, b. Feb. 29, 1808; d. Nov. 7, 1861; m. 1831, Samuel Wyllis Pomeroy of Cincinnati, Ohio, son of Samuel W. and Clarissa (Alsop) of Brighton. Resided in New York.
   Seven children:
   1. Charles Coolidge, b. Mar. 7, 1833; m. in New York, Edith Burnet; two children: Margaret Burnet and Mary Burnet Stone.
   2. Samuel Wyllys, b. Oct. 18, 1836; m. in New York, Mary King; two children: Mabel Helen Wyllys and Samuel Wyllys.
   3. George Baxter, b. Dec. 19, 1838.

Mar. 1, 1887. His name was changed by act of Legislature May 23, 1851, interchanging middle and last names, so that instead of having Swett for surname he had his mother's maiden name Coolidge. This became the more interesting, since he married a Coolidge. (For their descendants, see 1. 8. 5. 4. 1. 1. 1. 2. on page 338.)
   2. John Templeman, b. June 18, 1834; d. Jan. 5, 1913; m. Mar. 28, 1860, Anna Tucker Parker of Boston, b. Dec. 10, 1835, d. at Cotuit, Oct. 18, 1899, dau. of James and Anna (Tucker); no children.

1.*8. 5. 4. 5. MARGARET COOLIDGE of Boston and Lancaster, dau. of Joseph and Marguerite (Olivier), b. at Boston, Apr. 23, 1753; d. at Lancaster, July 9, 1838; m. Mar., 1772, Jacob Sweetser of Lancaster, b. at Boston, Sept. 23, 1746, d. at Lancaster, Jan. 23, 1823.

There is most interesting history connected with the residence of this family at Lancaster. With Boston a hotbed of discord between patriots and British soldiers; with the activities of the Coolidges in aid of General Warren, which made Margaret's father and brothers the suspected of the British, it is quite understandable why this daughter found Lancaster a more peaceful abode, and, more, the sanctuary for her mother, who went to live with her, and for her brother John, whose wife was Lydia Dawes, sister of William, upon whose head there was certainly a price, figuratively speaking, in which dangerous activities John was known to have shared.

Twelve children:

1. Eliza Dupee, b. at Boston, Jan. 2, 1773; d. at Worcester, June 13, 1800; m. Sept. 23, 1799, Daniel Greenleaf Wheeler of Worcester, where they resided.

JOHN HICKS is said to have been the first man killed on April 19, 1775, by the British troops, and was buried, "in his boots," in the old burial ground at Cambridge. About one hundred years afterwards (1870) the city of Cambridge erected a monument in the old cemetery to the memory of JOHN HICKS, WILLIAM MARCY, MOSES RICHARDSON and other men of Cambridge who fell in defence of the liberty of the people on that historic day, all buried in the old cemetery.[1]

CHAPTER VIII

LINE OF DESCENT NOT DEFINITELY ESTABLISHED

JAMES COOLIDGE went from Massachusetts to Ohio about 1800. His descendants state that his daughter, Annette, said that her father was a descendant of NATHANIEL COOLIDGE. This may be a branch of the family that went from Colrain to New York State, thence westward, sons of JOSIAH and TABITHA (FULHAM) COOLIDGE (see 1. 4. 2. 3. 7.).

James Coolidge is known to have had three children:

1. Annette, b. about 1821; d. in her 99th year, 1920; m. GEORGE WILBER of Marysville, Ohio. Their son, George M., b. in Union County, Ohio, July 3, 1862, m. (1st), 1884, LUELLA ROBINSON, who d. 1913; m. (2d), June 6, 1914, ALICE LUCILLE PEARSE; no children. He is director of the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, Ky., and resides at Marysville, Ohio. He attended business college at Marysville, and has become an extensive shipper of live stock and grain, owning large ranches in Idaho and elsewhere, and he has engaged in banking, mining, oil production and rubber manufacturing. He was a member of the Ohio House of Representatives 1909–13. He is a 32d degree Mason, and a member of various Masonic lodges.
2. Ai, b. near Marysville about 1830; crossed the plains in 1852, and settled at Silverton, Ore. He formed the banking house of Coolidge & McClaine in 1881, at Silverton, which is still continuing. One son, Alfred, b. at Silverton, Sept. 9, 1859. He is president of the Colfax National Bank, Colfax, Wash. He had two children: Dolph, b. at Colfax, 1884, vice-president of the Colfax National Bank, residing at Colfax, and Emma, who m. —— GEESEY, now residing at Seattle.
3. Tero, of whom there is nothing known.
